That German indemnity offers a sermon to the young man that ought to save, and saves nothing.

The suggestion now is that Germany should pay thirty billions in thirty years.

Mr. Lamont, of Morgan & Co., who ought to know about finance, points out in the New York Evening Post, that thirty billions in thirty years is equal to only FOUR BILLIONS cash down. In other words, four billions paid down now, invested and reinvested at compound interest, would amount to thirty billions in thirty years.

Consequently, $4 saved would become $30 in thirty years, $4,000 becomes $30,000 in thirty years. The way to get rich is to invest your money safely and let it grow.

The mercury stands 40 below in the Northwest, for instance, at Banff, Alberta. Human beings do not suffer, for man is an adaptable creature. He can endure cold as well as the Polar bear, and heat almost as well as the gorilla.

What is the temperature out in the regions of absolute zero, where Einstein says the law of gravitation falls down and "relativity" smashes all our accepted ideas? It is hard for us to realize that creatures from the absolute zero regions—if there were any—would think Banff's "40 below" a horrible, tropical climate.

Mr. Einstein now says this universe is limited. It is just so big and NO bigger, but it is quite a large universe. The orbit of the earth is more than one hundred and eighty million miles wide. The universe is ten trillion times as wide as that. To give the idea in another way: Light travels one hundred and eighty-six thousand miles a second, seven and a half times around the earth in a second. Going at that rate of speed it would take light a thousand million years to go around the universe.

Plenty of chance for us to travel, develop our minds and see sights if we are destined, as it probable, to live and travel eternally.

But why accept Mr. Einstein's limited theory? Why not ask him, however silly it may sound to a scientist: "You say that the universe is limited, just so big, nothing beyond it. Well, WHAT is beyond THAT? There cannot be limits to the universe, for wherever you put your limit, there is the "beyond," and whatever is beyond, though it be empty, is "SPACE."

With infinite bigness and infinite littleness there can be no limit. Name the smallest possible thing in the world. You will be told that if it exists at all it can be cut in two, so on indefinitely. The "uncuttable" atom contains dozens of electrons. Each electron might be an "infra" universe.

Einstein's limitation of the universe would amuse the real minds of this complicated cosmic machine if it could reach up to them, which it can't.

There is a rat in the Arctic regions. On it is a flea. Under the flea's leg is a parasite, living on the flea. Inside of that parasite is a microscopic creature, another parasite, living on the first parasite.

The parasite inside of a parasite would say: "I have made scientific calculations and find the entire universe to be just as big as one flea. The flea would have a different and larger opinion, the Arctic rat would have another opinion. But their opinions would mean nothing, for they have no standard, and men have no standard.

We cannot even prove that matter exists, that we exist, that the will is free, or that it is not free.

In the Tammen-Bonfils Denver Post, Judge Pollock, United States judge, says that prohibition will lead to revolution. Possibly; but cold water seems to produce revolution slowly. True, the Czar was ended for good and all after he selected prohibition to solve his problems.

But look at India, where 300,000,000 of water drinking vegetarians live under the thumbs of a few million Englishmen, thousands of miles away, and supplied with all the whiskey, gin and strong beer they want. Cold water hasn't driven India to successful revolution. Look at all Asia, so peaceful and submissive, outside of Japan — and Japan drinks.

Harendranath Maitra, here from India, says the whole trouble with the world is meat eating. "Killing and eating animals," he says, "has been the background of all European wars all these years."

Certainly, for meat eating developes energy; energy is necessary in war. He might have added that killing and eating animals has been the background of all genius produced in Europe all these years. Tolstoi, and Wagner both tried to work on a vegetable diet and found it couldn't be done. Wagner not only needed meat, but also a little champagne. Michael Angelo had to eat meat, of the best kind, and he thanks his nephew for excellent wine, that enabled him to lie on his back for hours painting ceilings when he was nearly eighty.

WESLEYAN FRESHMAN DENIES THEFT

Ely Held in $1000 Bail Charged With Stealing $90 From Classmate

By International News Service.

Middletown, Ct., Feb. 3.—Seymour W. Ely of Yonkers, N. Y., freshman at Wesleyan University, was arraigned in the police court here today, charged with the theft of $90 cash from a classmate, W. R. Stocker of South Philadelphia, Pa.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge.

He was accompanied to court by his father and Attorney Carlson, who appeared for him. The case was continued until Saturday and bonds were fixed at $1,000. Ely's fathers and a number of friends expect to secure bonds for the young man.

The arrest of Ely yesterday followed his confession to State Policeman Hurley that he had committed a number of the thefts in student rooms in the new dormitory at Wesleyan, where he roomed.

Ely also confessed that he staged a recent assault upon himself, when he was found unconscious in his room from a blow on the head in order to avert an explanation of his low stand in his studies and to allay suspicion directed toward him.

'DENIED LIVING WAGE,' SAYS HUDDELL

Explains to Chamber Housing Committee Condition of Labor Since War

Labor has not received a living wage since the war, Arthur M. Huddell of the United Building Trades Council told the Boston Chamber of Commerce investigating the housing shortage today.

Mr. Huddell, who resumed the stand at the opening of the hearing today, defined a living wage as one which would enable a man to support his family in comfort, educate his children properly, and put something by for a rainy day.

He admitted that during a short period in war time mechanics in the building trades had a few more comforts than they had been accustomed to, but these were hardly to be considered luxuries.

MOVING STANDARD.

He said it was only the moving up of the standard of living of the workingman. "For instance," he said, "my dentist told me that during that time men in the building trades came to him to have their teeth fixed who had never been to a dentist before. A few installed bathrooms in their homes, some had telephones put in and a few bought 'tin lizzies.'"

Asked by Attorney Pinanski for the committee if materials and labor were both reduced whether home building would be stimulated, Mr. Huddell said that would not be enough. It was a financial question, he declared.

"We know so little about money," he said, "that it is impossible to say what the men who control it will do."

WOULD TAKE TIME.

The witness said it was taking time for labor and employers to get back to the basis of efficiency, which was lacking during the war. The law of supply and demand, he said, was in-

BURGLARS FLEE WITH $300 AND PAPERS

Safe Forced by 'Can-Opener' Method in Back Bay Caterer's Store

Robbers today forced open the safe in the catering establishment of Carroll C. Whittemore at No. 1270 Boylston street and escaped with $300 and valuable papers.

The "can-opener method" was used, according to police. This method consists of ripping the iron door and sheet metal lining inside off with a huge instrument somewhat resembling the can-opener used by housewives.

It is believed the job was done by professional safe-crackers.

The proprietor of the establishment, one of the leading caterers in New England, says the papers taken were as valuable as the cash.

The safe blowers, in their hurried exit, left behind them certain tools of their trade and a wealth of fingerprints.

The authorities have been unable

Great Britain will take the stand that she has no power to grant concessions to outside nations in the Mesopotamian oil fields, as the League of Nations gave Great Britain a mandate for Mesopotamia, which was formally accepted.

NUNS FLEE FIRE IN LACONIA SCHOOL

One Sister, Overcome, Is Rescued by Her Companions; $55,000 Loss

Laconia, N. H., Feb. 3.—Sixteen sisters, attached to St. Joseph's School of the Sacred Heart Church, were forced to flee the building today when fire was discovered by one of their number. One of the sisters was overcome by smoke and her companions forced to carry her out. The school structure, one of brick, four stories in height with a slate roof, was badly damaged.

An investigation is being conducted to determine the cause of the fire. Assistance was called from Lakeport.

Rev. Fr. Dubois, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, reported today that only a few weeks ago the mortgage which covered the church, rectory and convent site, was burned.

At 9 o'clock last night one of the sisters went through every room in the building to ascertain if everything was all right. She retired to her room only to be disturbed by the crackling of flames. She hastily arose, discovered the fire and then went through the building arousing the other sisters.

It was possible to save some of the furnishings of the building, but the sisters lost a considerable portion of their clothing and personal belongings. The school was built in 1907 with an addition put on in 1910. The loss is set at $55,000.

EMPLOYES "BITTER" OVER PAY ACTION

Leader of Railroad Men Declares It Is Difficult to Keep Them "On the Job"

Detroit, Feb. 3.—Walkout of 370,000 members of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop laborers was predicted today, if the national wage agreement is broken by railroad officials and salaries are cut. S. J. Pegg, international grand secretary-treasurer of the union, offered the forecast.

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The spectre of a transportation tieup is hovering over the nation today as the result of threats to reduce railroad wages, according to labor leaders here.

Railroad workers, embittered over wage conditions, are even now threatening to leave their work, leaders here declare. While the heads of the railroad labor organizations refuse to predict a strike in the event that railroad wages were reduced, they declared that the nation would face a transportation crisis and intimated that the men would simply refuse to work at reduced wages, whether the leaders want them to or not.

attackers the policemen returned the fire, and violent fighting ensued.

Finally the attackers were forced to retreat in disorder leaving their dead and a number of wounded behind. The authorities did not announce the police casualties.

The fighting raged so furiously that the firing was heard nine miles away. It was first reported that 100 Sinn Feiners were in the ambush party, but later reports, which are not yet officially confirmed, said that 400 men had participated.

The Republicans had commandeered the home of Thomas King, a justice of the peace, at Burgatia, near Rosscarberry. Their intention was to attack a detachment of eighteen policemen who were expected to pass along the road. The Republican leaders, however, failed to cut all of the telephone wires and reinforcements of military police were summoned from Clonakilty after the fight had begun. The reinforcements were rushed to the scene equipped with all accoutrements for battle. When the attackers were driven from the King home the building was said to be a veritable shambles.

Another battle was fought at Rathcormack, where 150 Sinn Feiners made a furious attack upon the barracks. The attackers were repulsed after a fight lasting an hour.

Stern guerilla warfare is raging along the "Irish front" with the Sinn Fein taking terrible revenge for the execution of Cornelius Murphy, at Cork, who was dead nearly twelve hours before any one outside of official circles even knew the nature of the sentence imposed upon him by the British court-martial.

At least four policemen were killed and ten others wounded in attacks by Republicans during the twenty-four hours that followed the public announcement of Murphy's execution. Three others who were alleged to have assisted the British police were shot to death from ambush.

Two bystanders were killed and two wounded in Dublin and Carrick-on-Suir while military policemen were firing upon armed bands of Sinn Feiners.

A man was shot dead in Bishop street near Dublin Castle early today. A cyclist was killed by a stray bullet while riding through Trinity street. A boy was wounded while crossing Angier street.

Soldiers and Black and Tan policemen were active throughout the night in all parts of Dublin.

The death list in the attack upon Black and Tan policemen near Ballinalee, in County Longford, was brought up to four this morning, when two of the policemen died of their wounds. Two motor cars filled with Black and Tans were ambushed and blown up with a mine that had been planted under the roadway.

Dominion Plan Price of Peace, Says De Valera

Paris, Feb. 3.—"The only compromise which would be acceptable to Ireland would be the granting to Ireland by England the same measure of independence which is given South Africa, Australia, Canada and other dominions.

"If Lloyd George will consent to this we will give up the republic idea and call off the war."

This declaration forwarded to me today from President De Valera is the first definite statement from the Sinn Fein giving a ground for compromise.

It is understood that Lloyd George rejected the plan when De Valera proposed it during their conversation in London a fortnight ago.

New York, Feb. 3.—The Marquis of Carisbrooke, a cousin of King George of England, who has been the guest of General Cornelius Vanderbilt here since December, left for England today on the Aquitania to enter upon a business career, it was learned tonight. Lord Carisbrooke, it is said, is shattering all kinds of precedents by entering upon a business career. He is closely related to several of the royal families of Europe. He is a son of Prince Henry of Battenberg, a grandson of Queen Victoria, and a brother of the Queen of Spain. He is to take a place on the board of directors of Lamport & Hoeb, a British steamship company. The Marquis declared today that he does not intend to make the post a merely honorary one, but will be on the job at his office every day. The Marquis is thirty-four years old. In 1917 he married Lady Irene Francis Denison.

'HOUSING NOW FINANCIAL QUESTION'

Huddell Declares Cut in Wages and Prices Might Not Suffice

operative so far as building materials were concerned.

The brick makers are now meeting in New York, Mr. Huddell stated, and declared that no one knew what they were planning to do. "They may be planning to make bricks and give them away," said he, "or perhaps they are planning to manufacture a supply of goldbricks."

He said he did not know anything about price fixing, in connection with the charge by James T. Moriarty yesterday that the price of bricks in Boston was fixed.

Huddell said that general contractors faced the condition of finding prices of materials always the same. The only factor they could hope to reduce was that of labor, which they sought to lower by getting a new agreement from the mechanics.

FIXED BY WAR BOARD.

The witness said that there was not as great a shortage of mechanics in the building trades during the war as there was of other mechanics. The wages of laborers were not put up by competition of contractors, he stated, but wage rates were fixed by the war board. He denied that the productivity of labor was limited by unin rules.

Asked if it were true that bricklayers were forbidden to use both hands i ntheir work, Mr. Huddell said it was not.

He denied that unions placed any limit on membership in order to keep the supply of labor short and the price up. Asked if initiation fees in some cases were so high as to be prohibitive to many mechanics, the witness said he did not think so. In his own union, the Portable Engineers, he said the initiation fee was $100, but the applicant had six weeks in which to pay. He could also secure an extension of time with a reasonable excuse.

He said he thought the $100 fee was general throughout the building trades. In addition they had dues of $3 a month, he said, with no extra assessments except for something unusual.

He dnied the unions notify workmen in other towns to stay away from a locality where building is going on in order to keep the wage rate up. The only time this was done, he said, was when men were loafing and was to prevent them from spending carfares needlessly in looking for jobs. He also denied tat union labor discriminated against non-union materials and that unions sought to create a monopoly of skilled labor by limiting memberships.

Kearney Makes Statement

W. J. Kearney, representing the Massachusetts Housing Corporation, has written to the Boston Chamber of Commerce Building Investigation Committee in regard to some of the statements made at a session of the investigation. The letter follows:

"I noticed on the front page of a February 1st edition of one of the Boston papers, statements by a gentleman who was represented by the said paper as testifying on behalf of the Massachusetts Housing Corporation, wherein he stated that it was his opinion, speaking for this corporation, that rents would advance this coming year, owing to the continued shortage of houses.

"Representing as we do what I believe to be one of the largest co-operative housing propositions in this section, the Massachusetts Housing Corporation, I beg to advise you that the gentleman in question, while we value his opinion very highly, has no connection with this corporation, and while I would agree with him it is necessary to secure higher rentals for some new construction, we have proven to our satisfaction and that of our co-operative members, that it is possible to operate properties without the excessive and burdensome rentals that are being placed on many properties of a similar character to those we control, and still pay a fair return upon the amount invested in such prpoerties.

"We have found that by having our members as tenants in the properties we acquire, we are able to keep down a large percentage of the operating expenses, all of which, of course, are as a general rule, taken into consideration when fixing rentals. We have, furthermore, found that our repair charges have been reduced to a minimum as our members and tenants have been willing to do a great many of the minor repairs themselves, under our supervision.

"Trusting that you will see that the erroneous impression conveyed to the public at large, as to the attitude of this corporation, is corrected, I remain, content in railroad labor circles for many months, as the result of the failure of the Railroad Labor Board to grant the full wage demands of the workers and the granting of increased rates to the railroads. This discontent is steadily mounting. If wages are reduced, leaders here assert they will not be able to hold their men in line.

"The hardest job we have right now is to keep the men at their work," said E. C. Davison, secretary of the International Machinists' organization, today. The International Machinists' Union embraces a majority of the railroad shopworkers.

"The men are bitter," said Davison. "They want to throw up their jobs and quit working now. Our task is to keep them on the job.

"I don't want to talk strike. I don't know what the men will do if wages are reduced, but I know that it will be next to impossible to hold the men in line. If I were a shop worker and wages were reduced I would throw up my job right away, and, if necessary, I would leave the trade.

"The railroad men made enormous sacrifices during the war. They lived under terrible conditions, but they kept the flow of supplies steadily going on. When the war was over and they saw the railroads being plundered they became bitter, and they are more bitter now than ever.

"The railroads are not justified in reducing wages. Such talk as Atterbury's about the reduction of wages is a crime and the men know it is a crime.

"The railroads were granted huge rate increases to meet the rising cost of labor. Labor has secured 30 per cent. of those rate increases and the public is bearing the burden. The other 70 per cent. of the increases hasn't gone to labor and the railroads have no jurisdiction for talking wage reduction.

"We have the facts. We know the conditions of the railroads. They can afford to pay five times as much for repair work done outside of their shops as they paid for it in their shops before the war and yet they talk of the need of reducing wages.

"I don't believe wages are going to be reduced. Certainly the national agreements are going to be maintained or the men just won't work.

"I won't say there will be a strike if wages are reduced. I don't know. Nobody knows, but I do know this that it is a hard job to keep the men at work right now."

W. Jett Lauck, economist of the railroad labor organizations, is understood to be preparing new facts on railroad earnings. These facts will be used to resist any wage reduction.

Fallen Arch Victim Asks Tax Exemption

They are used to queer things in the office of John J. Mitchell, collector of internal revenue, but even the typewriter sputtered with amazement and the adding machine found difficulty in attending to business this morning when the official mail was opened.

One of the first letters laid on the collector's desk was from a man, whose name is being kept secret, asking exemption from the Federal income tax burden on the ground that he has suffered long and severely from fallen arches.

"I'd like to help him," said the collector, after he regained breath, "but there's nothing in the law that fits his case."

EXPECT WILSON TO RIDE WITH HARDING

Plans for Inauguration Day Being Considered by President-Elect

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Feb. 3.—Plans for the momentous day when he will become chief executive of the United States occupied a part of the attention of Warren G. Harding today.

News from Washington of the attendance at a theatre of President Wilson, it is understood, permitted the President-elect to outline with more certainty the schedule for his journey from the White House to the Capitol and the return to the executive mansion for luncheon with his predecessor.

No doubt was expressed by members of the Harding party today that President Wilson would be seated beside Mr. Harding on that journey.

The President-elect left for Palm Beach on the yacht Victoria early today after having spent the night at anchor near Fort Lauderdale. It is expected the Victoria will arrive at Palm Beach early this afternoon. Mr. Harding will lunch at the home of Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen and play eighteen holes of golf before sailing again for the North.

George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the next Chief Executive, was a marooned mariner yesterday on a deserted bar in Biscayne Bay for a time. The remainder of the Victoria's party motored to Fort Lauderdale for golf, expecting to be picked up here by the boat.

With Christian aboard, the Victoria struck a sandbar and Christian was forced to row ashore in a tender. He tramped around through unknown territory for some time before he reached a telephone to call for assistance.

U. S. PAYING FOR BAKHMETEFF 'EMBASSY'

Kelly, Houston's Aide, Makes Admission to Senate Judiciary Committee

Washington, Feb. 3.—Frank admission that the United States has been supporting "Ambassador" Bakhmeteff and other representatives of the defunct Kerensky government in this country in elaborate style since 1917, was made before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Kelly made the admission.

At the end of each month the old Russian embassy here, in which the Kerensky officials are quartered, Mr. Kelly testified, puts through its bank a draft on the government for its expenses.

NEVER REFUSED.

This draft has never been refused, he said.

So far as can be ascertained, the "embassy" has no connection whatsoever with any government now functioning in Russia.

Kelly was summoned to a hearing on the bill introduced by Senator Reed to prevent the Treasury Department making additional loans to Europe. The bill also would cancel the credits to foreign nations on which the money has not been actually disbursed.

While he was before the Judiciary Committee, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was favorably reporting to the Senate two more bills having a similar object. Both were offered by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts.

One bill would prevent the proposed funding of $10,000,000,000 now owed the United States by foreign governments into long term obligations.

The other bill directs the Secretary of State and the Secretary of the Treasury to inform Congress as to the steps taken to collect the interest on our European loans and as to the negotiations that have taken place regarding the funding of this interest as well as that of the principal.

LODGE ASKS CONSIDERATION.

Senator Lodge, chairman, asked immediate consideration, but his request was blocked by objections from the Democratic side. The Senator announced however that he would press for a vote on the measures at the first opportunity.

Cross-examined by Senator Reed, Assistant Secretary Kelly admitted that at the fall of the Kerensky regime in 1917 a fund of approximately $59,000,000 stood in its favor in this country.

The charge was made by the Senator that this fund, which he said was mainly subscribed by the United States, had been used since to finance the Kerensky embassy here.

HENRY FORD PROBABLY WILL BORROW ABOUT $50,000,000

WILL HOLD BUSINESS INTACT

Explodes Theory of Outside Financial Interests Taking Control

By B. C. FORBES.

New York, Feb. 3. — Henry Ford is the most-talked-of business man in America today. Much that isn't so has been printed. We read one day, for example, that he is "broke." The next day we are told that "General Motors interests are to take over Ford." One popular story has been that "the bankers have 'got' Ford and are refusing to finance him." Then Detroit sends out a dispatch that "Ford is being besieged by bankers who are anxious to supply him with capital." The numerous resignations from the Ford Company have prompted statements that "the Ford organization has gone to pieces." And so on and so on.

* * *

Here are the facts as I gathered them: Ford needs financing—in fact, must have financing.

The amount he is likely to borrow will probably be nearer $50,000,000 than the $100,000,000 or $120,000,000 generally named.

The running of Ford's business will not be taken over by any financial interests. Reports that a New York banker is to become treasurer are wrong. The next treasurer is to be one of Ford's own organization.

Instead of no banker being willing to conduct Ford's financing he has been so pestered with bankers and bond houses that he has been compelled to go into hiding. At the moment reports were being printed that "it is understood Henry Ford has gone to California" the truth is that Mr. Ford was in the strictest seclusion not so very far from the city of Detroit.

Notes (not bonds) are being planned.

* * *

When Mr. Ford first sounded out bankers concerning a loan he couldn't believe his ears when they began to tell him what he must do and must not do in order to be supplied with capital. He was incensed. He exploded. The very idea of any banker or anybody else on this earth talking to him like that—it was an outrageous insult. He would stand for nobody telling him what he should or should not do concerning any phase of his business. Hadn't he built up the business? Yes; and he meant to control it without the slightest interference. For a time all negotiations were emphatically dropped by Ford.

* * *

But "needs must when the devil drives." Ford was finding every day that he required money more and more urgently. In this respect Ford's position was and is no different from a vast number of other concerns, except that in his case he had gone ahead and tied up enormous amounts of cash in face of a business recession which most authorities clearly foresaw.

* * *

This is what has led up to the position Ford now finds himself in.

It cost him upwards of $100,000,000 to buy out the Dodge brothers and other minority stockholders. Of this amount I understand Mr. Ford produced about one-third from his own pocket and, through the Ford Motor Car Company, borrowed $60,000,000 on short terms from the Chase National Bank of New York and its associates. This obligation almost immediately began to be partly liquidated from earnings.

During the war Ford prosecuted a huge steel construction development on the River Rouge, southwest of Detroit. Instead of costing a comparatively few million dollars, this project ate up million after million with disconcerting rapidity, until the total reached a staggering and embarrassing figure. This constituted another very serious drain upon earnings.

Still obsessed with Napoleonic ideas for becoming completely self-contained industrially, Ford bought immense ore lands and timber lands in the northern part of Michigan. And, in order to have his own transportation facilities, he next purchased the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad. This road cost Ford a pretty penny, reputedly between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000. These expenditures likewise made a hole in Ford's receipts.

* * *

On top of all this the Ford Company had, of course, to hand over to the government 40 per cent. of its profits in taxes. This will probably run up to not far short of $100,000,000 for the two years 1919 and 1920.

Then, after Ford received his profits from the company, he had to give up over 70 per cent. of them to the government in income taxes.

Meanwhile the $60,000,000 bank loan had fallen due and had to be taken care of.

* * *

To aggravate Ford's extended financial position, he had, for the first time in his career, to close down his works because of lack of orders. Until then Henry Ford's ever-present problem had been one of production, more production and still more production. He hadn't taken into his calculations the possibility that the day would come when the world would not eagerly absorb his cars as rapidly as he could turn them out. The unexpected shutdown stopped the tidal wave of Ford receipts—but not the accumulation of bills for materials rolling in upon him. Then, to add one more straw to the camel's back, he had to fork out almost $10,000,000 in wage bonuses at the new year.

* * *

Then one of his lieutenants began to get out or be put out. The list embraced Frank L. Klingersmith, vice-president and treasurer; Charles E. Brownell, publicity director; Dean Marquis, head of the famous Ford Welfare Department; W. C. Anderson, European agent of the Ford company; while before then Ford's engineer, Harold Wills; his sales manager, Norval Hawkins, and the head of his sociology department, John R. Lee, had withdrawn.

* * *

Worse than all of this, Mr. Ford's only son, Edsel, who naturally is the apple of his eye, was suddenly stricken with appendicitis, and as Mr. Ford had elected him president and was putting him forward as the mainspring of the whole works, all financial negotiations were held in abeyance, pending Edsel's recovery. Edsel came out of the hospital last week and immediately took up consideration of the pressing financial problems. The negotiations are now proceeding.

* * *

It is just possible that a definite announcement of a Ford note issue—probably $50,000,000, but perhaps larger—will be made within a few days. If not, then another hitch will probably mean considerable delay.

* * *

Incidentally, Henry Ford is a worried, disappointed and somewhat disillusioned man today.

WIFE OF MARINE WAS KILLED BY JAP SENTRY

Mrs. Guddale Slain in Vladivostok Street on Visit to Cruiser Albany

San Francisco, Feb. 3.—Accosted on the streets in Vladivostok, Siberia, by a Japanese sentry, Mrs. Louis Guddal, wife of a marine on board the cruiser Albany, was shot and instantly killed, according to a letter received today from Guddal by his parents, who reside in Alameda. The shooting occurred August 23.

In his letter Guddal said that his wife in company with another Russian girl were en route to visit him on board the cruiser Albany when a Japanese sentry accosted and insulted them. Both women started to run. The Japanese leveled his rifle and fired three shots, two of which hit Mrs. Guddal.

Her companion darted through a building and escaped.

Guddal said that because of frequent clashes between the Japanese and Russian troops, men on board American war vessels in the harbor were prohibited from going ashore.

Three days after his wife died Guddal was permitted to go ashore to attend her burial in the American cemetery.

RESCUED FROM ROOFS OF BURNING BUILDINGS

Pittsfield, Feb. 3. — A number of men, women and children were taken from the roofs of the Frederick and Gans building by means of ladders, when fire which started in the Frederick building quickly spread to the Gans structure, cutting off the escape of the occupants.

Shocked by Schoolgirls Who Tipple Perfume

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Members of the W. C. T. U. from four States in conference here sat in shocked silence today, when Mrs. Robert McCall told them that girls wear little silver bottles attached to their wrist chains to carry a certain perfume which has a kick when consumed.

"I have been told by a supervisor in one of our public schools," said Mrs. McCall, head of the Young People's Branch of the W. C. T. U. in Chicago, "that the reason young women wear those little silver bottles is that they contain specially prepared perfume, with a large per cent. of alcohol, which they drink.

"Our young people are finger-marked like the page of a book soiled by a dirty thumb; they have ragged minds that remind me of shabby shoes and they have a ragtime religion. The movies with immoral stories of sex, vampires, vice, are an evil that cannot be estimated.

"Girls dress as they please, dance where and how they please and come home late in taxis, or go to questionable restaurants. They use language that is shocking and flaunt cigarettes before respectable women in public places."

TEN PROMOTIONS IN INTERNAL REVENUE

Ten promotions in the Internal Revenue Department were announced today by Collector John J. Mitchell. Thomas B. Hassett of Worcester is advanced to chief field deputy, William H. Dyer of Worcester to division chief deputy, Ralph R. Robinson of Springfield to chief deputy of the western division, Arthur Harrington and Joseph J. Waul to division chief deputies, William J. Gould to first assistant, legal department; Arthur A. Donovan, assistant in legal department; Dennis Bradley, first assistant, income department; James J. Riley, head of correspondence division, income department, and William H. O'Meara, head of the tobacco and oleomargarine department.

OFFERS MADE IN GARMENT STRIKE

Workers' Committee Considers Proposals From Several Firms Affected

There were intimations today from the strikers that some of the sixty-six firms of the Ladies' Garment Manufacturers' Association affected by the walkout of 2,000 men and women operatives were ready to capitulate.

The strikers appointed a settlement committee of eight, which met at the American House. It was indicated that this committee would consider tentative offers from several of the firms.

The strike grew out of the refusal of the manufacturers to recognize the closed shop, and the insistence of the Boston branch of the Cloak and Skirt Makers' Union, International Ladies' Garment-Workers, that such recognition be given.

Most of the strikers met at No. 724 Washington street. A. Snyder, manager of the local branch, presided.

He declared that many of the manufacturers were ready to come to terms with the union, but were "dominated" by other members of the manufacturers' association. Picketing was continued today.

MISSING WIFE'S HUSBAND HELD AS BLUEBEARD

Suspect Left Home With First Mate in Auto and She Never Returned

New Castle, Pa., Feb. 3.—Albert T. White, well built and handsome at the age of fifty-six, is in jail here today, held without bail, suspected by the police of being a modern bluebeard.

Technically charged with bigamy, White is held in jail while the authorities are making a vigorous search for his wife, who has been mysteriously missing since December 23. He tells conflicting stories, but it is believed that the woman is dead.

The police have discovered that White was married to a Mrs. Marie A. Longstreet of this city on December 22, in Pittsburgh. He secured a marriage license there, stating that he was a widower and that his wife had died in 1919.

Sheriff Boyd of this city, however, who called at White's residence here in December last, in an effort to collect a bill, met and talked with the first Mrs. White.

Neighbors assert that the original Mrs. White disappeared in company with her husband on December 23, in a closed automobile. She has never been seen since that time.

Besides the story of her death in 1919, White has stated that he had taken his wife to the Warren Insane Asylum. That proved false upon investigation. He then declared that he had taken her to a private sanitarium in Pittsburgh. This was followed up and found to be without foundation.

White and his first wife, according to those who know them, lived happily together for thirty-three years. She was a Miss Sadie Hinkson of this country. They had no children.

Mrs. Longstreet, confronted by the police with the fact that she may not be married to White at all or that she may be married to a murderer was greatly affected. She declared that White told her that he had never been married. She is under the care of a physician.

East Norfolk Veterans Protest Conditions

Bunker Hill post of the American Legion, Charlestown, has forwarded to Surgeon-General Hugh Cumming of the United States Public Health Service, Washington, a formal complaint of the conditions existing at the "Oval," a department of the Public Health Service unit at East Norfolk.

The complaint is in the form of a report of an investigation by a committee of the post with recommendations for better conditions and service.

The investigating committee comprised Vice-Commander William E. Blake, Dennis J. Swanson of the executive committee of the State department, and Comrades George McNamara and George E. LeFavor. Copies of their findings have also been sent to the Massachusetts Senators and Congressmen.

The "Oval" is about three miles from the hospital proper. Its inhabitants are supposed to be in better health than those of the other buildings. The verdict of the investigators is that it is not in fit condition for sick men and that there is more evidence of neglect than of proper care and medical treatment.

COMMENDS WELFARE WORK.

A speedy and thorough inquiry by a government board or inspector is demanded.

The committee commends the work that is being done by the visitors of the Jewish Welfare Board and the vocational training director in the face of unusual handicaps.

The complaints in detail are as follows:

1.—There are forty patients (epileptic) at the "Oval" with only one nurse to care for them. Patients say there are no tongue depressors on hand and they are continually biting their tongues.

2.—An electric stove for heating food has been overdue since last June.

3.—Shower baths are in a filthy condition, indicating that they have not been cleaned for weeks.

4.—Two large dining tables in the mess room are very dirty.

OTHER DEFECTS.

5.—The toilets in Barracks 6 are in filthy condition, the drains being clogged up and giving out a bad odor. It is claimed that this condition has existed for about six months.

6—Glass is broken in the windows and side door of Barracks 4. In this building patients have to spend most of their time. This condition was brought sharply to the attention of the superintendent of the hospital force.

7—In Barracks 2, the recreation building, there is a pool table which cannot be used owing to the fact that the boiler has been broken down for two months and the building cannot be heated sufficiently to permit the men to stay there.

The committee makes the following demands and recommendations:

1.—The stationing of a regular medical officer at the "Oval" together with at least three more nurses and three more orderlies.

SUGGEST AUDIT OF BOOKS.

2.—The installation of a ten-gallon coffee boiler in the kitchen, converting the vegetable pot in which the coffee is now being made to its original uses and furnishing a better grade of coffee.

3.—A better grade of food, better care of it and more of it. Also adequate transportation facilities to accomplish this result and to put an end to the excuses for not meeting the need.

4.—Tobacco and cigarettes for patients delivered to patients and not to employes.

There is a special demand that a rigid inquiry be instituted to find out if patients have been dismissed for complaining or committed to an insane hospital.

Copies of affidavits from three persons who have been stationed at the hospital in official capacities accompany the report of the investigating committee. The report does not demand but suggests that it might be wise to have a special audit made of the books of the purchasing agent and the dietitian.

EXPLODING MANHOLES STARTLE PROVIDENCE

Providence, Feb. 3.—Several manhole covers in Westminster street blew off early today and startled the downtown sections. Windows in the vicinity of Westminster and Winter streets were shattered and the covers were blown about fifty feet in the air. No one was injured. The manholes connected electric lighting systems conduits and it is thought leaking gas caused the explosion.

DANA HALL GIRLS MUST NOW DON GOLOSHES

Students at Exclusive Wellesley School Aghast at Ban on Bobbed Hair

"Flat heels in the classroom,
Soft step on the stair,
Neat feet in goloshes,
No bobs in the hair."
Dana Hall Rhymes.

Shades of Patrick Henry, Kosciusko, Abraham Lincoln and all others who indorsed liberty and all its works!

They've deprived the Dana Hall girls of their heels!

And that isn't all.

An even blacker infamy has been perpetrated, according to the students of the exclusive preparatory school for Wellesley.

The young women must encase their silkclad ankles in spats in cold weather, and oh! abomination of abominations to the youthful female heart! Rubbers! Goloshes! India rubber firebuckets, as Kipling called them.

BAN BOBBED CURLS.

Freedom, popularly believed to have shrieked when Kosciusko fell, may well roar with rage, the Dana Hall girls say, at this act of tyranny.

But the end is not yet, although further misery had almost lost its power to be felt. No more may youthful locks be fetchingly bobbed without written consent from papa and mamma, and interview with Miss Helen T. Cook, head of Dana Hall.

When the edict first went forth it was considered too improbable for consideration. Then came consternation, followed by wrath, and tears, all to no avail.

"But what is youth without high heels?" moaned the young women in anguish. They swore, by all the gods of young women, they swore not to abide such despotic commands. They returned from the holidays high-heeled, silken ankles exposed to the Winter breezes, and only thin soles between the small feet and the ground.

WARDROBES DENUDED.

Then came the deluge. Officialdom, as it has a way of doing, exercised its powers and acted. A call for inspection was issued and the hygienic department inspected. Patent leather and silver pumps and dainty oxfords were reluctantly dragged from closets and lined up before wardrobe doors.

Grim inspectors, armed with rules, descended sternly upon the dormitories, and the next morning Wellesley shoemakers were busy removing lifts.

Then a notice was posted to the effect that once without rubbers, if caught, meant a month on "bounds." Twice without rubbers, week-end privileges taken away.

"And they talk of the horrors of Blue Laws," muttered the students.

POLAND CUTS SOVIET INDEMNITY IN HALVES

London, Feb. 3.—Poland has cut in half the amount of gold indemnity demanded from Soviet Russia for damage done when Poland was overrun by Bolshevik troops last Summer, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

Paris Skirts Longer to Hide Stockings

Paris, Feb. 3.—Skirts are going to be longer in Paris this Spring. The dressmakers, however, say it is not because of denunciations by clergymen.

They declare that the high cost of silk stockings made it economical for women to wear longer dresses, hiding stockings with cotton uppers. Gowns in all the late plays which are now being put on here reveal skirts to the wearer's ankles.

STOWAWAY ON TRAIN DELAYS IT HALF HOUR

Hallowell Young Man Amaze Crew by Persistency on Way to Lynn

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 3.—A most determined young man is H. Spencer of Hallowell, Me. So determined was he that train No. 200 from Bangor to Boston pulled into this city thirty minutes behind its scheduled time and all because of his persistency.

Spencer, eighteen years old, was out of work. Unable to find means of supporting his wife and child in Hallowell, he decided Lynn, Mass., offered the proper inducements for him. But to reach Lynn was the problem confronting him.

Mr. Spencer reached Bangor without mishap and there adjusted himself aboard the blind baggage of No. 200, a Boston-to-Bangor express. At the time the mercury registered above zero, but despite this difficulty Mr. Spencer rode it into Portland, where an unsympathetic car inspector drove him away.

In due time No. 200, then in the hands of a Boston & Maine crew, started its run on toward Biddeford. There the fireman found a man atop the tender, hidden behind a pile of coal. He was taken off and turned over to the police officer at the depot.

No. 200 got under way, supposedly rid of its free rider. As the train neared North Berwick, Engineer Wells happened to glance backward and when the firebox door was thrown open, the reflection revealed to him a man's arm around a ventilator.

He brought his train to a stop and when the fireman clambered to the roof, he found Spencer. The man had escaped from the Biddeford police officer. Again the train started toward Portsmouth.

The train next drew into Eliot, Me., and there the persistent rider was found on the cowcatcher. He ran into the woods when chased.

This time two police officers took him in charge by request of Conductor Cook. The man was taken to police headquarters in this city half frozen. He was fed plenty of good, hot coffee and substantial foods and then turned loose.

He told the police he was going to Lynn.

SOUTH BOSTON OPENS FIGHT AGAINST POOR "L" SERVICE

5-CENT FARE AND MODERN CARS ARE DEMANDED

The people of South Boston demand better street car service. Undismayed by futile appeals extending over many years, which they say have been met by evasion and empty promises, prominent citizens have renewed, with greater determination than ever, their effort to bring about improved transportation.

Leaders in the campaign say they are terribly in earnest this time. They say street car conditions are "disgraceful." They complain that it would be "unlawful to transport cattle in the manner in which working girls are packed into ramshackle cars in rush hours."

WHAT CITIZENS ASK.

They ask:

That modern cars and more cars be operated.

That rush hour conditions be relieved at once.

That the company stop its policy of discharging conductors and motormen in the South Boston division and other economies which they claim further cripples an already crippled service.

That a five-cent fare be adopted on all South Boston lines, owing to the short haul to the city proper, and, if this reduction in fare is not granted, that adequate service be given for the ten-cent fare.

That the congestion at Andrew square be relieved by diverting Dorchester cars, via Dorchester street and Broadway, to the terminal at Dorchester avenue and Broadway.

That the South Boston-Field's Corner, via Dorchester avenue line, be restored with transfer privileges at Dorchester street and Broadway.

CIRCULATE PETITION.

Representative Joseph D. Toomey is circulating a petition for relief which will be presented to the trustees of the Boston Elevated Company. Meetings of protest are talked of. The Peninsula district is aroused. Representative Paul H. Hines is also backing the fight.

Former Senator Robert E. Bigney, secretary of the Democratic City Committee, and president of the South Boston Trade Association, who is now practicing law, said:

"Street car service in South Boston is wretched. It was better ten years ago than it is today and it was far below requirements then. It has gone from bad to worse. There is only one solution — State ownership. Everything indicates that this must be the eventual outcome. There doesn't appear to be any other way to account for the policy pursued by the officials.

PEOPLE PAY THE BILLS.

"It looks to me as if they were at last anxious to unload the property on the Commonwealth and break the present contract. The trustees don't seem to keep in mind that the people pay the bills and are entitled to more consideration.

"With a population close to 90,000 our district ought to receive as good street car facilities as any other territory, but does it? It most certainly does not! Look at the old cars on all but the Broadway-North Station line. They remind you of the cars used on poor boys' picnic days or of the stage coach era.

"When the big convertibles came over first about two years ago we thought perhaps the motormen had lost their way and wandered into South Boston by mistake. Do you think the Elevated trustees would think of using bob-tailed cars in Newton and Brookline? Why aren't the people of South Boston worthy of just as much respect and consideration? The sooner the Elevated officials realize that, the better for all concerned.

CONDITIONS DISAGREEABLE.

"I saw a cartoon used in Governor Long's campaign showing a street car with passengers clinging to the roof and sticking out of doors and windows. That humorous drawing is repeated in real life every morning and evening on the South Boston cars in rush hours. The conditions at Broadway and Andrew Square terminals and at South Station, when the working girls try to economize by using the five cent line, are disgraceful.

"Young women and aged women, fagged after their day's labor, are compelled to stand jammed between men, even out on the platforms. The unsheltered stations at Broadway and Andrew suare are a menace to health. Give South Boston modern cars and more cars, I say. As a matter of fact the Elevated Company could afford to transport South Boston patrons for 5 cents on all lines, because our haul is the shortest on an average in the city.

EXTEND FIVE-CENT LINE.

"The five-cent line to South Station appears to be run in a manner to make patrons ashamed to avail themselves of it. The five-cent line would be a greater success if larger cars were used and if the terminus were Post Office square or Franklin and Washington streets instead of the South Station. Many hard-working people have of necessity to use that line, but what good is it to women with bundles who have to walk a third of the way home from the shopping district to South Station and fight their way for a chance to stand on a platform? From a standpoint of common decency conditions ought to be improved."

Former Representative John J. Lydon, publisher of the South Boston Inquirer, who served as captain in the 101st Infantry overseas, said:

"Those French freight cars marked '8 chevaux; 40 hommes,' in which the troops were transported, were Pullman drawing rooms compared to most of the street cars used in South Boston. This is the district to which all the street car antiques are assigned. We get the remnants, in rolling stock and service. It is disgraceful the way the cars are jammed during rush hours. Tracks are congested with stalled cars at Andrew square every night, and between rush hours people are forced to wait for long periods exposed to wind and weather.

BAY VIEW LINE A TRAVESTY.

The Bay View line is a travesty. It travels over most of the country on its way to and from town and the cars are dilapidated and unsanitary, like all the lines save the Broadway subway line. The Elevated can afford to give South Boston better service and it ought to be compelled to do so.

"Abolition of the transfer privilege at Dorchester street and Broadway has cost business men in that vicinity thousands of dollars in trade. It works a hardship on patrons living at points midway on Dorchester street. Any woman with bundles who lives on Sixth or Seventh street would be compelled to pay another ten cent fare from Broadway and Dorchester street on a stormy day or night. The ridiculous suggestion has been made that they can continue in the tunnel to Andrew square and there ride back up Dorchester street on a Southampton-Dudley street car. Fancy making such a detour and face the crush at Andrew square? The busy hours are worse than any college cane rush.

"Those changes and economies in policy have obstructed rapid transit and made the term a joke in South Boston. From a standpoint of public health and morals conditions ought to be improved. Our girls and women demand and are entitled to better accommodations. South Boston boasts of a population close to 90,000. As a matter of fact it has lost thousands of inhabitanst because of the miserable street car service, so many in fact that personally I don't think the total population at present is much more than 80,000 and the Boston Elevated Company is to blame for it not being a round 100,000. Inadequate street car facilities keep new residents and home-buyers away from a district."

Cork Calls on Boston to Send Books

Cork, sometimes called the "Irish Athens," has appealed to Boston, centre of American culture, for books. An appeal, signed by the officers of the University College, Cork, has been received here, asking that books, large and small and on every subject conceivable, be sent to the Librarian, School of Art, Cork, Ireland.

The reason for this is the fact that on December 12 last the only free library in Cork was burned to the ground by Black and Tans, as the inhabitants charge. More than 14,000 volumes went up in [illegible]. Some were rare and valuable.

The reading rooms were the centre of intellectual activity in the city, and the library authorities wish to replace them before the good results of the library are lost altogether.

The name of the donor of a book is to be put in every volume he contributes. Books on literature, history, economics, sociology, sports, travel, technology and every other subject will be welcomed, as well as books of fiction and poetry.

TEXTILE LABOR MEN TO MANAGE OWN PLANT

Fall River, Feb. 3.—Plans are near completion for the operation of a textile plant at New Bedford under the management of the United Textile Workers of America, according to a statement issued by the Doffers' Union, a branch of the United Textile Workers. The plant, which will be known as the Mammoth Spun Silk Company, has been incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts.

Stock in the project will be purchased by the United Textile locals, it is declared. Among those interested in the undertaking are President Thomas F. McMahon and John H. Powers of Pawtucket, executive committeeman.

TO PROBE BURNING OF DEDHAM SCHOOL

At a record breaking meeting of the town of Dedham, held in the Dedham Town Hall, and lasting just six minutes, the citizens voted to empower the moderator, G. Grenville Darling, to appoint a committee of five to consider action with regard to the burning on January 14 of the school building, to give the committee $300 for expenses, and to appropriate $1,800 for school supplies and furniture to be used temporarily by the children now attending the Quincy school.

The committee will make its report at the annual town meeting to be held in April.

$1,700, Banked in 1891, Now Over $5,000

Concord, N. H., Feb. 3.—When the locker of Conductor Willis B. Kidder of the Boston & Maine was opened in the depot here a young bonanza was found by the attorneys representing his family. The conductor died a few days ago and following the funeral an attorney came here to open his locker.

In a glass case in the locker he found a bankbook on a savings bank in Nashua. It showed a deposit of $1,700 made in 1891. Investigation revealed that there had been no withdrawals or further deposits made. The interest at four per cent. compounded during the thirty years it had lain idle had brought the account up more than $5,000.

In addition a number of Liberty Bonds were found.

NEW 'DEAD LINE' AT PORTSMOUTH PRISON

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 3.—A new dead line has been established around the grounds of the Naval Prison at the Navy Yard. The line is about 100 yards away from the prison buildings. Almost at the line are located two ponds from which water for fire supply and ice is secured. Two searchlights will play on the ponds constantly to prevent escapes by swimming in Summer or over the ice in Winter.

HARDING TO BE GUEST OF BOSTON PRESS CLUB

Warren G. Harding, President-elect of the United States, will be the guest of honor at the dinner in celebration of the 35th anniversary of the Boston Press Club.

Mr. Harding verbally accepted the invitation extended to him by a member of the club who called upon him at his office in Marion, Ohio, some weeks ago, and has also replied in similar vein to a formal [illegible] sent him by the president of the club.

The date of the dinner has not yet been determined, as it must necessarily depend upon a time when the then President can leave Washington.

FALL CARRYING CABINET SLATE TO CAPITAL

Harding's Choice to Be Made Known at Conference With Senators

By Universal Service.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Senator Albert Fall of New Mexico, who has been on the outing with President-elect Harding in Florida, is speeding Northward to Washington today with the Harding Cabinet slate tucked in his vest pocket.

Upon his arrival here he will go into a series of conferences with the advisers of the President-elect in the Senate, in which the Cabinet selections will be made known.

SLATE AS FOLLOWS.

Senators who have been informed in advance of the slate that Senator Fall is bringing back with him said that it shaped up as follows:

For Secretary of State: Charles Evans Hughes.

Secretary of War: John W. Weeks, former United States Senator from Massachusetts.

Secretary of Navy: Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois.

Secretary of the Treasury: A. W. Mellon of Pittsburgh.

Secretary of the Interior: Senator Albert Fall.

Secretary of Labor: James J. Davis of Indiana.

Secretary of Agriculture: Henry Wallace of Des Moines.

Secretary of Commerce: Charles B. Warren of Michigan.

Attorney-General: Harry Daugherty.

Postmaster-General: Will H. Hays, chairman of the National Republican Committee.

Barring circumstances unforseen and considered unlikely at this juncture, this will be the list President Harding will send to the Senate for confirmation on March 4, it was said authoritatively.

[illegible] it was stated, has only tentatively accepted the Interior portfolio, and upon the condition that he be permitted to step aside if a more likely candidate presents himself.

DAWES DECLINED.

Charles G. Dawes of Chicago was the first choice of the President-elect for the Treasury portfolio. He was not offered the post direct, but was asked through certain Senators if it would be acceptable to him. He definitely declined, with the explanation that he was "not interested in politics."

The name of J. J. Davis has been mentioned only recently among the Cabinet "possibilities." Although a native of Pennsylvania, Davis now lives in Mooseheart, Ind. Leaders of the Indiana delegation in Congress have been strongly recommending his appointment.

FAMILY AT FUNERAL; HOUSE IS ROBBED

While the family was attending the funeral of Miss Grace F. Turner, a former yeoman F, at the Charlestown Navy Yard, thieves ransacked the apartment of Mrs. Paul R. Turner, No. 1471 Beacon street, Brookline, and secured money, jewelry and silverware to the value of more than a thousand dollars.

Using a jimmy to force an entrance they ransacked the premises, dumping the contents of bureau drawers onto the floor and gathering up everything of value in sight.

DECLARES RAY OFFERED TO BUY STOLEN AUTO

Benjamin B. Ray, former Lynn Councilman, now on trial in Salem, charged with receiving stolen automobiles, offered to sell Ralph W. Green, who has pleaded guilty to two counts of receiving stolen cars, a touring car which Ray admitted was stolen, according to Green's testimony at the trial.

Thomas F. St. George, who has pleaded guilty to the larceny of several autos, said that he received $100 for one type of car and $200 for another type from the Councilman for the machines which he (St. George) stole.

READING BOYS BACK AFTER RACE WITH DEATH

Lloyd F. Lovering of No. 209 North Main street, Reading, and Charles Hines of Highland road, Reading, returned from Hebron, Me., after carrying a quantity of serum from the Harvard Medical School to the bedside of Perez F. Bonney, a Medford youth, who is ill at Hebron Academy. They covered more than 350 miles over frozen roads, and reached Reading exactly twenty-four hours after starting for Maine.

They were not allowed to see young Bonney, but said physicians at the school informed them that he has a good chance of recovery.

SLEEP SICKNESS BAFFLES N. Y. DOCTORS

One Victim in Coma Two Months; No Epidemic, Says Official

New York, Feb. 3.—Is this city about to follow the axample of London now nodding in the tarall of "sleepy head," deadly lethargica ancephalitis, which still baffles science?

According to a statement issued today by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, health commissioner, New York may go its way with no fear of the drowsiness which few ever shake off, despite the fact that sixty-six cases are under treatment here at present.

In New York State the disease, which physicians say will not become an epidemic, was responsible for the death at Hornell of Barber Eldridge, forty-five, who has lain in a coma for two months. At least six more cases are reported at Hornell.

Dr. Copeland's statement explains that the great danger of the disease lies in its complete mystery. Neither what causes it nor what will cure has yet been discovered; the only sure bit of knowledge is that it differs from the "sleeping sickness" of Africa, by the bite of the tsetse fly.

MALADY NOT CONTAGIOUS.

However, the many cases following influenza epidemics indicate it relates to that infection, Dr. Copeland said. He continued:

"Report of the department shows at this time a year ago we had 149 cases under treatment. There was a gradual decrease to October. In the entire year there were 365 cases, of which 238, more than 50 per cent, proved fatal.

"I do not think the sickness is contagious or communicable, for we never have found two cases in a single house."

He said that he expects cases reported here during the next two months to equal the number of those of a year ago. In March, 1920, there were 116 cases and sixty deaths.

Thirty-one cases were reported last week alone.

One of the most spectacular in the history of the disease here is that of Miss Yetta Lehman, who lay unconscious more than a month, to be awakened the day before that set for her wedding by the voice of her fiance, Edward Roth.

Describing her sensations as she awakened, Miss Lehman, who is twenty-three, said:

HEADACHE EARLY SYMPTOMS.

"His voice seemed to come to me from unbelievable distances. I realized, as one does in a dream, that it was a call I wanted to answer, and made a desperate effort to shake off the thing that held me.

"As he kept on talking I seemed to feel his own confidence. Finally I could see people about me and hear what they said."

Among the symptoms of lethargica ancephalitis, all of which also are indications of brain affections, are drooping eyelids, stupor, wavering memory, coma, delirium, nausea. Headache is one of the early symptoms.

"Encephalitis" as defined by Dr. Osler, is a "diffuse inflammation of the brain substance."

It is said cases often have been diagnosed as typhoid. The disease occurs in convalescense from fevers, but most often follows influenza.

FRENCH AND POLES TO UNITE AGAINST 'REDS'

Paris, Feb. 3.—Reports of a forthcoming defensive alliance between Poland and France for the protection of Poland against a possible Spring drive by the Russian "Red" army filled the air today when Marshal Pilsudski, head of the Polish government, arrived here for a series of conferences with President Millerand, Premier Briand, Marshal Foch and other high French officials.

CHURCH FEDERATION FOR DISARMAMENT

A resolution favoring disarmament has been adopted by the executive committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, a body of fifteen denominations and 2,800 churches. The resolution declares that the time has come for the government of the United States to "take immediate steps to secure international disarmament through international agreement."

Americans Try to Buy Foreign Decorations

A large proportion of Americans of means going to Europe now are seeking decorations, Edward L. Hearn of New York, European Commissioner of the Knights of Columbus, in a letter to Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley of the Knights of Columbus, reports the Knights of Columbus office in Paris has been besieged by well-to-do American men and women eager to obtain decorations from the French and Belgian governments, many of them expressing a preference for recognition from the Holy See.

Many of the riband-hunters, Hearn reports, are prepared to spend substantial sums for decorations. The many honors awarded the Knights of Columbus by Pope Benedict, President Millerand and King Albert have led to numberless appeals to the Knights for similar honors.

"The men are far more eager than the women," Hearn states. "My only advice to them is that if they had come during the war instead of long after it, they might have received recognition. The honors given to war workers have whetted the American appetite for foreign decorations. French and Belgian statesmen are plagued with riband-hunters, and their mail is loaded with dossiers of the different candidates for honors."

HOLD SLAYER OF WOMAN FOR THE GRAND JURY

Ex-Convict, Taken to Scene of Crime, Describes Milford (Ct.) Murder

Milford, Ct., Feb. 3.—Following a visit to the scene of the brutal murder of Mrs. Anna Chernock here, of which he is accused, and where he described to Coroner Mix and police officials details of the crime, John Kacerauskas of No. 108 Organ street, Bridgeport, was lodged in the county jail at New Haven to await the action of the grand jury, which meets Friday.

SERVED PRISON TERM.

It was learned by the police that Kacerauskas had served a five-year term in Wethersfield Prison, Connecticut, for a robbery committed in New Britain. He was released about four years ago.

Kacerauskas told the coroner, it is said, that when he went to the Chernock house, he had no intention to commit murder. Robbery was the sole motive.

He and John Chernock, the dead woman's husband, worked together at the same bench in the Columbia Graphophone Company factory in Bridgeport and he had been a guest last Sunday at a christening party held at the Chernock home.

There Kacerauskas heard Chernock boast that there was something like $110 in cash in the house and it was with the intention of stealing this that he came to Milford.

WOMAN TORE OFF MASK.

On entering the Chernock yard, Kacerauskas told the coroner, he came face to face with Mrs. Chernock. At that time he wore a black mask. They had a scuffle in the yard and Mrs. Chernock ran into the house and bolted the door.

Kacerauskas picked up a hatchet in the yard, broke the glass in the door and unfastened the catch.

On entering the house he and Mrs. Chernock again had a scuffle and she succeeded in tearing the mask from his face.

Then, fearing that she had recognized him, he struck her on the head, the blow killing her. Then he dragged her body into the cellar.

He says he threw his mask and revolver into the river after the murder.

FRENCH SENATE URGES SEIZURE OF CUSTOMS

German Refusal to Discuss Reparations Stirs Leaders to Demand Action

Paris, Feb. 3.—Following Germany's refusal to discuss reparations a majority of the French Senate demanded that immediate military action be taken by the allies.

The Senate urged that such action begin with the seizure of German customs on the Rhine, extending the seizure later to the Ruhr district.

The move is believed to foreshadow energetic action by France, even without the consent of Great Britain.

Influenced by the sudden warlike move in Parliament, the French Bourse became very unsteady. Stocks on the exchanges declined abruptly and financiers are extremely pessimistic.

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or, rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Advertisement.

CONFERENCE ON PIER RATES IN HUB FEB. 16

Cole Acts to End Alleged Discrimination Against Auto Truck Men

Evidence that the auto truck is gradually supplanting the railroad as a carrier of short-haul freight caused State Commissioner of Public Works John N. Cole today to invite to a public conference on February 16 the representatives of the great Boston shipping interests concerned in the use and development of Commonwealth Pier.

Dockage, pier, storage and transfer charges will be considered with a view to eliminating any discrimination which may exist in favor of rail against auto truck freight.

IN FAVOR OF RAILROADS.

Commissioner Cole said today that when the pier was established and the rates for the transfer of freight levied, the auto truck was practically unknown in the industrial field.

"A sharp difference in the rates per ton for the transfer of freight between the pier and the railroads and the pier and the auto truck was then made in favor of the railroads, and it still exists," he said.

The same conference will also discuss existing rates to determine if all users of the pier, whether for storage, dockage or transfer, are being charged on an equal plan.

It has been pointed out that the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad pays only 10 cents per ton freight handled to and from Commonwealth Pier, owned by the State, while teamsters and motor truck owners pay from 40 cents to $1.40 per ton.

DISCRIMINATION GLARING.

Besides this, the teamsters say, the railroad charges Boston shippers from 8 to 15 cents per 100 pounds for loading, delivering and switching freight which is truck hauled at Commonwealth Pier, while goods left in New Haven cars for the short haul costs only 3 cents per 100 pounds, with no wharfage charge.

This discrimination is made more glaring, they maintain, by reason of the fact that New York City owns its own piers and makes no wharfage charge at all. Wharfage charges handicap the growth of the port of Boston, according to Boston shippers.

Investigations have been sent to Mayor Peters, the Massachusetts and Boston Chambers of Commerce, the New Haven, Boston & Maine and Boston & Albany Railroads, the Cunard and International Mercantile Marine shipping interests, Boston Wool Trade Association, Traffic Club, Associated Industries of Massachusetts, Master Teamsters' Association, United States army officers and representatives of various mercantile agencies.

MAJOR PUTNAM DENIES HE IS PAID BY BRITAIN

Major George H. Putnam today issued a statement denying he is a paid agent of Great Britain. In letters sent to James F. Hayes of Charlestown and Rev. Martin A. Hunt of Holy Cross College, Worcester, he asks public retraction of this charge accredited to them.

He points out in the letters that he has always urged a friendly relation between the United States and England, but that, instead of receiving any money from British authorities, he had always found his own traveling expenses. Declaring himself in favor of home rule for Ireland, he says: "I hold that the citizens of Ireland are entitled to as full a measure of political independence as is enjoyed by the citizens of Massachusetts or of New York, and no more. I hold that the breaking up of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland would be a misfortune for civilization, just as I held in 1861 that the breaking up of this republic would have been a loss to mankind."

WILLIAM H. McLEOD TALKS ON ADVERTISING

"Advertising is no skin game" said William H. McLeod, advertising manager of Wm. Filene's Sons Company at Boston University last night. McLeod's talk was the first of a series to be given at B. U. and ambitious would-be advertisers showed they were not slow to appreciate an unusual opportunity to get first-hand information.

"Advertising is not mysterious," said McLeod, "and it does not perform miracles. It does not take the place of a good product and is not a substitute for hard work."

A few points in writing advertising brought out by Mr. McLeod in his first talk were "Have something to say," say it so that the people who read it will understand it easily," "put it where they can see it."

The stenographer's desk was suggested by Mr. McLeod as the most effective road to an advertising position.

MELLEN FILES ORDER TO AID JOBLESS

An order providing relief for the unemployed throughout the State has been filed in the House of Representatives by Representative James J. Mellen of Charlestown on the petition of Wendell P. Thore. The order would appoint a committee consisting of three members of the House and three members of the Senate "to furnish relief for the unemployed on work or otherwise to be provided under the direction of the Mayors and Selectmen of the cities and towns of the Commonwealth from appropriations to be provided by the General Court."

CHAMBER OPENS TWO NEW DEPARTMENTS

New executive heads of two important departments of the Boston Chamber of Commerce took over their work today when Denny B. Goode, former secretary of the Holyoke Chamber of Commerce and Lawrence A. How Would You Feel in Suit Made of Nettles?

STOCKINGS- Made of China Grass.
BOX- JUTE- Chemically Treated
SWEATER- Made of Seaweed.

Miss Katherine Olsen wearing sweater made of "posidonia," Australian seaweed, one of the many fibre products exhibited by the Boston Bureau of Foreign Commerce. The stockings were made from "solidonia," a mixture of grasses from China.

The "fibre clothes" are here.

They are of German manufacture, and are on exhibition in the Kimball building, No. 18 Tremont street.

The exhibit was gotten together by the Boston Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, which has offices in the Customs House.

New England textile experts are showing lively interest in the exhibit, and say that the fibre as a substitute for wool is by far the most convincing material they have seen in many a day.

This fibre is made indifferently of nettles, seaweed, pine needles, jute, grass or any vegetables.

It was invented by a German scientist who was about to announce it to the world when the war burst forth. He has since built a factory employing 250 operatives, and is seeking larger quarters.

One of the fibre products is known as solidonia. It is made of grasses from China, and is made into such variegated articles as under-clothing, table linen and machine belting. It is non-shrinkable and will not wear out.

Another fibre product is posidonia. It is made of Australian seaweed. It makes excellent carpets.

The new fibre products make excellent yarn, according to textile men. Mixed with wool, they also make good army uniforms and ordinary clothing, much more durable than 100 per cent. woolen garments.

Among the exhibits is an army uniform made of 75 per cent. wool and 25 per cent. fibre. It is vastly superior to the "O. D.'s" of the doughboys, if the word of New England scientists is worth anything.

The big thing about the fibre garments, or partly fibre garments, is that they are cheap. All are cheaper than wool. Some are cheaper than shoddy, and infinitely superior.

10 SAILORS ON HUB 5-MASTER ARE MISSING

Diamond Shoals Coast Guard Find Schooner Carroll A. Deering on Sands

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 3.—A parrot, which screeched but could not talk, was the only sign of life found aboard the five-masted Boston schooner Carroll A. Deering, which was fast aground on the treacherous sands of Diamond Shoals with all sails set and her crew of ten men missing when boarded by life-savers.

Mystery surrounding the disappearance of the crew deepens. Whether they abandoned the vessel at sea and were picked up by some passing steamer or were lost in the northeast gale is puzzling mariners. All the small boats of the schooner were gone, which would indicate that the men left the vessel in them before she ran ashore. The Deering is apparently in good condition, gives no sign of having sprung a leak and [illegible] seafaring men are at a loss [illegible] reason why she was abandoned.

After several futile attempts of the Coast Guard to reach the vessel in their own boats they boarded the cutter Seminole and were put aboard the schooner. The Seminole is standing by.

It is believed that the vessel can be floated with little damage unless a storm strikes her. She is resting on the southwest corner of the Diamond Shoals, the most treacherous part of the Atlantic Coast.

The Deering was bound for Norfolk from Rio Janeiro and Barbados. She is valued at nearly $200,000 and was launched at Bath, Me., in 1919. She is a vessel of 2,114 gross tonnage.

THE DEAF HEAR

Mrs. Catherine M. Morrill resides at 1119 Montello Street, Campello, Mass. She says: "I had been deaf for years, so deaf that I was compelled to ask those who conversed with me to repeat so often that I knew that they found it so difficult to converse with me that many gave up trying." I felt so keenly my deafness that I would hazard an answer which often used to be the reverse of what I would have answered if I had heard and understood what the person addressing me was saying. I had noises in my head, too, constant and hard to bear. My ears discharged at times, which added to my affliction. I read of the Osmo-Chemic physicians and what they had already done for people in various parts of New England, some of whom I knew, and I went to them, and the result has been so gratifying that I gladly lend my name and what influence I have to directing others who suffer from deafness and kindred ailments."

The wonderful power of the X-RAY TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful results in disease of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASE, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASE, BIRTHMARKS, MOLES, FACIAL BLEMISHES, ETC.

MRS. DE FALCO MAY KNOW HER FATE TODAY

Counsel in Final Arguments; Felicani Denies Visiting Defendant in Dedham

Arguments of counsel for both sides in the trial of Mrs. Angelina De Falso, the Dedham court interpreter who is charged with soliciting legal business illegally, were heard by Judge Michael J. Murray today in the First Criminal Session of the Municipal Court.

Samuel L. Ballen, attorney for the defendant, was given forty-five minutes to sum up his side of the case, and a similar length of time was given to Fred H. Moore, acting as government counsel. Aldino Felicani, secretary of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defence Committee, is the complainant.

SAYS HER REPUTATION "BAD."

Attorney Ballen's argument was expected to consist of an attack upon the veracity of witnesses for the prosecution and to follow the theory that the defendant had been subjected to a "frame-up."

On the other hand, Attorney Moore was expected to ask for a conviction, based on the testimony of his witnesses that Mrs. De Falco approached Felicani and others on the Sacco defense committee with a proposition that if they gave her $40,000 she could secure the freedom of Nicola Sacco and Bartholomew Vanzetti, who are now awaiting trial for alleged murder in the South Braintree payroll robbery, through Francis J. Squires of the Dedham court and Percy A. Katzman, a Dedham lawyer.

Judge Murray commented in court that the testimony of witnesses on opposing sides was at "hopeless variance."

The final witness for the government in rebutal was Casimo de Castro, a lawyer with offices in the Winthrop Building, East Boston, who testified that he recently lived in Dedham and found that Mrs. De Falco's reputation was bad.

JUDGE RAPS TESTIMONY.

Attorney Ballen asked him if it were not true that he had come to his office and said that he was going to testify in the trial. Ballen asked: "Did you tell me that you were going to testify in the case and that what you had to say would not do Mrs. De Falco any good?" "Yes," replied the witness.

At this point, Mrs. DeFalco arose and said: "No, your honor, I wish he would." She was crying aloud and Judge Murray ordered her to be seated.

Then Attorney Moore asked De Castro if he had known of Mrs. De Falco being instrumental in transferring a certain case from a lawyer to Francis J. Squires. This question was excluded and Judge Murray said: "I have heard all the testimony I care to, unless counsel can persuade me otherwise—especially such testimony as that offered by the last witness. It bears no more weight than that of the previous witness, both being based on personal opinion."

DENY SKELETON POSTERS.

Felicani denied that he had visited Mrs. De Falco at Dedham on January 3 and January 14 or at any other time. It had been testified by others that on the former date he went to the home of Mrs. De Falco and asked the names of "good Norfolk county lawyers" and that she gave him the names of Squires, McCool and McInerny, writing Squires' name on a piece of paper for him.

On the fourteenth it had been testified that Fellicani went to the courthouse in Dedham with Mrs. De Falco; that she made an appeal to Squires to take the Sacco and Vanzetti cases while he waited in the hall.

Felice Guadagni, editor of an Italian newspaper, also testified in rebuttal that he had never been in Dedham. He also declared that at no time were there any pictures of skeletons representing District Attorney Frederick G. Katzman of Norfolk County, in the rooms of the Sacco-Vanzetti defence committee.

Inspector Stephen J. Flaherty of the Boston police testified that when he arrested Mrs. De Falco on January 15, she told him that she had never been at No. 32 Battery street, the rooms of the Sacco-Vanzetti defence committee, and that she did not know Felicani. Flaherty also quoted her as saying: "I'll fix those anarchists."

Mrs. Annie Caruso of Norwood testified that Mrs. De Falco came to her within the last sixty days and told her that if she paid $500 the case of her husband, who is now in jail, would be reopened by Squires in order to obtain his parole.

She was offered by counsel for the Commonwealth to refute a statement by Mrs. De Falco that she had not seen Mrs. Caruso within the last sixty days.

Pension Sought for Aged Deaf and Dumb Registry Clerk

IF HE NOTCHED HIS PEN FOR EVERY YEAR OF SERVICE MEANING "BEAT IT!"
PAPA "TEMPUS"
THE TYPEWRITER WAS TOO MUCH
THE INK GEORGE HAS USED IN THE PAST 65 YEARS WOULD FLOAT THE "LEVIATHAN"!

Clerk George A. Holmes, (standing), aged eighty-three, still on the job, taking directions from Registrar of Deeds, William T. A. Fitzgerald.

When Grant took Richmond George A. Holmes had been for eight years a clerk in the Suffolk Registry of Deeds. Grant is long since dead, but friends of Holmes have just gotten around to asking a pension for him.

George A. Holmes has spent sixty-five years of his life toiling as a copyist in the Boston office.

Registrar William T. A. Fitzgerald, who is his present chief, and who is asking for a pension for the aged and faithful servant, is the eighth registrar under whom he has served.

TRIED TO LEARN TYPEWRITING.

If you don't believe it, know that thirteen years ago, when he was seventy, he tried to learn to run a typewriter. It was the registrar's order. But he was too old. His fingers had the cunning of the penman, but not the agility of the typist. So the registrar consented to let him write his copy in the flowing longhand of days gone by.

Registrar Fitzgerald seeks $480 a year for this loyal servant of the people. Mayor Peters and the City Council have ratified the pension. The matter is up to the Legislature, which is expected to take favorable action.

Mr. Holmes' feelings are mixed. He feels that a pension is coming to him, but at the same time he is unwilling to retire from the firing line and become a non-combatant in the struggle of life. The registry office has meant life and achievement to him for many years. "I will be lonely when I leave it," he telegraphs with his eloquent fingers to his many friends when they ask him about it.

REMEMBERS CIVIL WAR DAYS.

The aged copyist remembers distinctly the ante-Civil War days, the underground railroad and the fury of the North.

He also remembers with distinctness the little office in Court Square where he began his work, an office utterly unlike the modern business offices now occupied by the registrar and his staff.

When he first became a clerk he worked from 9 in the morning until 6:30 at night. When the office was transferred to Pemberton Square the hours were changed to 9 to 5. Holmes was always punctual.

For the last year or two the old man has not done much copying. He has been assigned to keeping volumes in place, and to taking care of the coatroom.

His handwriting is free, flowing and ornate, as was the writing of his early days. He says that the typewriter is an improvement, but he confesses he is too old to learn new tricks.

Mr. Holmes has been twice married. His home is at No. 437 Trapelo road, Waverley. He was born in Boston, and worked for a few years in Hartford before taking a position in the Registry of Deeds. Registrar Henry Alline was his first chief.

GIANT STILL SEIZED BY "DRYS" AT DERRY, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 3.—The largest still that has been seized by prohibition enforcement officers since they started operations in this section was taken in a raid made on the home of Samuel Tolleck, No. 25 High street, Derry, N. H., by Federal Officers Hickey, McCauley and Lorden. The still, the officers claim, would produce two gallons of moonshine whiskey an hour. Eight barrels of mash, valued at $700 and seven gallons of liquor were also seized.

$15,000 RAISED FOR HOSPITAL AT ELK SHOW

7,000 See Stars of Ring and Mat in Monster Carnival for Sick Children

Fully 7,000 brother Elks and friends may be accompanied by women—attended the boxing-wrestling carnival held by Boston Lodge, No. 10, B. P. O. E., in Mechanics building, and the Children's Hospital and Convalescent Home, in whose behalf the entertainment was given, benefited to the extent of approximately $15,000.

The show was "put over" in a first-class manner and will go down in history as one of the biggest entertainments of its kind ever staged in Boston. All of the performers gave their services free of charge to help the needy children.

"BOILED SHIRTS" IN RING.

One would almost believe that the affair was held in one of the halls of Europe, where formality at such functions is the rule. For the first time since the existence of the State Boxing Commission, the referees wore tuxedo suits as they supervised the bouts.

Though there were many exhibition matches between such celebrities in the fistic world as Johnny Wilson, world's champion middleweight; Mike O'Dowd, former world middleweight champion, and Willie Jackson, lightweight championship contender, there were some real contests and it was in these that the white-fronted referees had to use skill in managing, lest they soil their "boiled" shirts.

HONOR LIVING AND DEAD.

Perhaps it was a peek into—say 1950—when the three Bennett Sisters from Loew's Orpheum gave an exhibition of boxing and a burlesque on the no longer exclusively manly art. The Misses Rose, Lois and Blanche showed that the fairer sex is not so weak as some might believe.

At the mystic hour of 11, the lights were dimmed and Benjamin Ostheus, postmaster of Medford and a Brother Elk, asked the audience to rise and think of friends living and dead. "Auld Lang Syne" was sung by the gathering.

Then there was silence for a minute in honor of the 500 wounded soldiers, sailors and marines from Greater Boston hospitals, who were seated on the auditorium stage. "Over There" was struck up by the Letter Carriers' Band of Boston and many joined in singing the war-time song.

MADE ELK HISTORY.

Daniel J. Kane, assistant corporation counsel of Boston, a past exalted ruler, was chairman of the committee in charge. Other members were: Secretary, Henry Kaufman; treasurer, Michael J. Norris; assistant treasurer, Joseph Mellyn; Daniel W. Lane, chairman of the boxing committee; George Freeman, boxing committee; John L. Kelly, boxing committee; James W. Reardon, chairman of publicity committee; Joseph Di Pesa, chairman of entertainment committee.

They were assisted by about fifty other Elks in making the event a memorable one in the history of Elkdom.

SCOTTIE suits

—the year-round suit

$15 and $19.75

"Can I wear a Scottie suit to church?" A young college girl earnestly asked this, and the saleswoman convinced her when she brought out styles as pretty as cloth suits.

"Can I wear it day in and day out, without that awful 'shiny' look?" This was a well-groomed business-woman. And she was convinced when her own friends told her of Scottie suits emerging "shineless" from months of strenuous business life.

"How about golf?" A woman going South felt the soft, elastic weave, measured the comfortable width of the skirt, noted the smart jacket and ordered three Scottie suits.

Scottie suits don't wrinkle, and they don't sag; in styles and colors to suit every type.

MILL HEADS SEE PROSPERITY RETURNING

Lawrence Conditions Indicate Coming Boom in Textile Industry

Lawrence, Feb. 3.—The larger mill plants of Lawrence are showing indications of a coming boom in the textile manufacturing industry, according to statements made by various mill heads.

The cotton department at the Pacific Mills which has been on a five-day schedule for weeks will resume its normal schedule this week. Since the first of the year the worsted department of the Pacific has been running full time and the print works will continue to run four days a week.

It was said at the Arlington Mills that many more looms were put on a full-time running basis this week.

The agent of the Everett Mills believes that the present full-time schedule at the mill will continue for some time. Heads of the American Woolen Company Mills announce a gradual improvement in working operations in the four plants of the company, but said that it may be weeks before normal conditions are resumed.

"TING-TING"

The SHADOW STAGE

William Courtenay Visits Boston American Office for a Chat on "Movies"

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

WILLIAM COURTENAY WAS staggered. It was his first trip into a newspaper office and he could scarcely believe his eyes. He sat down in the midst of the city room—secretly, we understand, he thought it the haunt of whirling dervishes—for an interview, which started out, very properly, on movies, but which speedily developed into an account of newspaper work.

"How do you compare acting for pictures with acting for the stage?" we put the leading question to him.

"Well, the stage, of course, is my first love," he replied, obviously trying to keep his mind on the subject. "As for pictures, why—Look! What's that man over there doing? Oh, and the two across there—and—Gee! It's noisy! Do——?"

It was all off. Courtenay turned interviewer for a few minutes as he shot question after question about the people he saw hurrying around.

"Boy!" shouted an editor at one end of the room. "Bo-oy!" came a hail from the other end, and "Boy!" someone bellowed just back of Courtenay's ear.

He stared dumfounded. "Is all that for the same boy?" he wanted to know. We explained about the band of copy boys.

"And about pictures—" we prompted as he recovered.

"Movies are queer things to play in," he replied, keeping an eye cocked in the direction of the busiest corner of the room.

JUST COPY MEN, BILL.

"In one scene you're making violent love to a girl and assuring her that if she doesn't marry you you'll hunt up the nearest river, then in another scene ten minutes later, you're being introduced to her. That's mixing to anyone's who's always played in —what do all those men do?"

We explained about the men who edit and re-write the stories turned in. He was visibly impressed by the cool way they worked in the midst of the hurry, then the scurrying boys caught his eye again and he looked like a man at a circus who tries to watch all three rings at once.

Before we could get another word on pictures he had to go. The last thing he said as he turned for one more fascinated look around the room was, "movies, yes, and the stages, they're great, but they seem like napping compared to newspaper work!"

NEILAN'S THEORY.

THERE HAS BEEN a great deal written lately about the lull in motion picture production. There have been, it is true, fewer films turned out within the last few weeks, but whether this will continue is very doubtful. Some concerns have explained it with the fact that they are taking stock of the motion picture situation; some say their films are made up ahead of their schedule; others are looking for good stories for their stars.

Marshall Neilan has a new theory. He feels sure that the lull will be relieved soon with the production of big subjects, and that the situation should work out to the advantage of the industry.

"The year just started," he states, "will see the production of big pictures employing much larger casts than have been seen the last few years. In my latest picture, for example, I used 2,000 persons, including a technical staff of fifty-seven. This means that I had about 1,500 more players and workers than I usually use.

"The cry for 'fewer and better pictures' has been heard at last. The competition among producers to outdo each other in quantity output has been found to be false business enterprise as far as movies are concerned."

CAMERA CLICKS.

MARY MacLaren has taken up drawing as a sideline. After working all day in the studios, she hurries home and four nights a week studies at an art school.

MAY ALLISON is laid up at her home in Hollywood with a broken rib. After going through all sorts of stunts for her next picture without a scratch, she was playing with some of the studio children when she was hurt.

ELINOR GLYN is being entertained right and left by the producers and stars in Hollywood, where she is working on a scenario for Gloria Swanson, whom she has picked as America's most beautiful woman.

JACK PICKFORD will direct his sister, Mary, in her next film. Frances Marion, who was to have directed the picture, has been recalled to New York to finish out her contract with International.

CATHERINE CALVERT is in Quebec taking part in the annual Winter carnival for which the city is famous. Next week she will leave for Hollywood, where her next picture will be made.

BLANCHE SWEET is back from a three months' trip abroad, where she has been gathering material for future films.

LADY DIANA MANNERS, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Rutland, has signed a contract to star in a series of J. Stuart Blackton's pictures.

FAY TINCHER has started on a tour of the country to appear at the theatres where her pictures are being shown. Miss Tincher started work playing vampire roles under the direction of D. W. Griffith. "I must have been so bad that I was funny," she explains, "for Griffith transferred me to comedy roles immediately!"

WILL ROGERS was known as a crack rope thrower before he decided to go in for acting. The other day he was practicing lassooing on the lot when a little Chinese boy came along. Rogers turned and threw his rope at him, neatly missing him by the fraction of an inch. The boy looked at him in scorn and called out derisively:

"Golly, you're a rotten rope thrower!"

CUTE IMP

VIOLA DANA

"THE OFFSHORE PIRATE" at the Modern and Beacon Theatres is a wild tale of a happy-go-lucky young chap who takes possession of Ardita Farnam's yacht and sails off with it and with her. This would all be preposterous if it hadn't been carefully planned by her uncle in order to keep her from marrying the Russian adventurer who has caught her fancy.

It is a fantastic and hopelessly improbable play, but its absurdity and nonsense is kept in bounds by the sustained action, the unusually clever and "pat" titles, and the remarkable comedy talents of Viola Dana and Jack Mulhall.

It is entertaining without being absorbing and keeps one chuckling with amusement, but not actually laughing aloud.

CLEVER COMEDIENNE.

Miss Dana is an exceedingly clever comedienne. She takes the greatest enjoyment in her work and makes the most of every opportunity for fun-making without making it seem like endless efforts to keep up the laughs. She is one of the most continuously and keenly amusing actresses we have in films. As the pert, audacious heroine is by far her best line of comedy and at the same time is a character that lends itself to farcial plots, she makes a specialty of playing it. Ardita Farnam is one of these.

Jack Mulhall, as the pirate who carries on his work within sight of land, is jovial and debonair.

The story by F. Scott Fitzgerald, who is fast becoming to the flapper what Booth Tarkington is to the Willie Baxters of the country, is quite the most ingenious we've seen on the screen in some time. Though of flimsy texture, it manages to sustain the interest to the end.

Waldemar Young's scenario is worked out, and his titles provide half the comedy. "The Offshore Pirate" is a genuine appeal to our sense of fun.

'TARZAN' SERIAL UPSETS TRADITIONS OF SCREEN

Screen traditions are upset and innumerable "rules" of technique are violated in the photoplay serial, "The Son of Tarzan," today at Gordon's Strand (Dorchester) and Gordon's Central Square (Cambridge) theatres. The first instalment is a prologue, "Tarzan of the Apes," showing his rescue from the African jungle by explorers and how he goes to England, where he marries Jane Porter after assuming his rightful rank and position as Lord Greystoke.

LYNN FAMILY DRIVEN FROM HOME BY FIRE

Fire early today on the first floor of a wooden building at No. 18 Suffolk street, Lynn, forced Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Morrill and their three children, who occupy the top floor of the building, to flee from the burning building thinly clad. The first floor is occupied by the Gostanian Leather Company and the damage is estimated at $1,000.

LEGION HOPES PAYSON DANA CHANGES MIND

Sends Letter to Commissioner Trusting It Will Induce Him to Appear at Hearing

Replying to the refusal of Payson Dana, commissioner of civil service, to appear before the executive committee of the American Legion concerning statements he was alleged to have made regarding the extension of the veterans' preference act, the Legion, through Leo A. Spillane, department adjutant, has sent the following communication to Dana:

"Your letter of February 2 is received and the executive committee will regret to learn of your declination to comply with its request.

"You misapprehend the reason for this request. There is no attempt to question the right of free speech nor the performance of duty as a public official.

EXPULSION RIGHT.

"As you have been informed, certain resolutions were made by the Middlesex County Council and forwarded to the executive committee, among them a resolution recommending that the committee 'take steps for the expulsion of Mr. Dana from the American Legion.'

"Under the constitution of the Massachusetts Department, it is the duty of this committee to expel members of any post within its jurisdiction if it shall appear that such expulsion is warranted.

"An organization of the Legion has put this matter before the committee. It is the duty of the committee to give due consideration to this recommendation, to obtain information for the purpose of determining whether or not the recommendation should be adopted, and after due hearing and consideration to take proper action according to its best judgment.

DUTY AS LOYAL MEMBER.

"You are requested to appear as a member of the Legion before a duly constituted authority of the Legion in order that it may act properly. Your only duty with regard to this request is that of a loyal member of the Legion with respect to its authorized procedure. You have a right to expect proper consideration as a Legion member and a proper regard for your right as such.

"The committee believes that it has the right to expect your attendance at this important hearing if possible, or a reason for not attendance which would properly excuse you from attendance under these circumstances.

"I hope this explanatory letter will induce you to reconsider your decision not to conform with the request of the committee.

"Yours sincerely,
"LEO A. SPILLANE,
"Department Adjutant."

Harvard Men Warned From Wintry Woods

As Harvard men lost in the Winter woods of New Hampshire and Vermont has brought publicity to that college which is undesirable, the Crimson, the college daily, editorially today warns against the "Winter folly." Concluding the editor states:

"Men unaccustomed to Winter camping should not undertake excursions without following the advice of experienced Winter campers. A properly equipped party can ride out almost any storm in the mountains with safety. Mountain climbing at this time of the year is safe enough if undertaken in the right way, as is evident from the activities in this line carried on by the Dartmouth Outing Club; but "taking a chance" is only too liable to cause unnecessary trouble and bring undesirable publicity to the university."

BOY, AGE 9, HELD AS SOMERVILLE GEM BURGLAR

Police Claim He Has Confessed to Looting Home of Mrs. L. A. Zwicker

Nine-year-old Frank Fequars, Jr., of No. 15 Carlton street, Somerville, the youngest alleged burglar in the history of the department, was arrested by Patrolmen Burns and Groves, after being caught in her cellar by Mrs. L. A. Zwicker of No. 8 Sanborn avenue, Somerville.

Ten latch keys, one Yale key and several lottery slips were found on the youngster, who was turned over to his parents. He may be arraigned at the juvenile session of Somerville Court on next Saturday morning.

Fequars admitted stealing a silk dress and jewelry from the home of Mrs. Zwicker on Tuesday last after breaking in through the cellar, according to the police. Later he gave the loot away to some boys with whom he was not acquainted, say the police.

Mrs. Zwicker has been on the watch for a repetition of the Tuesday burglary, and on hearing a noise descended to the cellar, where she collared young Fequars. He is alleged to have entered by breaking a window.

How To Revitalize Wornout Exhausted Nerves

Your nerve power depends on plenty of good, rich, red blood of the kind that organic iron—Nuxated Iron—helps make. Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on iron filings. Nuxated Iron does not injure the teeth nor upset the stomach; it is an entirely different thing from ordinary metallic iron. It quickly helps make rich, red blood, revitalize wornout, exhausted nerves and give you new strength and energy. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using it. Beware of substitutes. Always insist upon having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.

PARKHURST IS PAID FINAL TRIBUTE

State's Military and Civic Dignitaries Turn Out to Rended Last Respects

Augusta, Me., Feb. 3.—Maine paid final and impressive tribute today to Governor Frederic Hale Parkhurst, the third chief executive to die in office.

Prominent men of State and nation were present by hundreds, and thousands of men and women lined the sidewalks in respectful silence while while the long funeral procession went by.

Business activity was suspended in Augusta between 10 and 1 o'clock, as a result of a proclamation issued by Mayor Francis L. Fogg. All schools were closed.

The funeral was from the South Parish Congregational Church. The body was removed under military escort to the church from the Capitol, where it had lain in state since early yesterday.

A detachment of men of the quartermaster's corps of the Maine National Guard formed this escort. Members of this corps were also active bearers.

Colonel Frank M. Hume, commander of the 103d Infantry of the 26th Division in the World War, was chief marshal of the funeral parade. He had as assistants several men who made enviable records overseas.

A platoon of police marched directly behind the flower-laden coffin in the procession from the State House rotunda to the church. Next came the Third Maine Infantry Band, playing dirges, and a battalion of the Third Maine Infantry, commanded by Major Irving Thomas.

The active bearers were United States Senators Bert M. Fernald and Frederick Hale, Congressmen Louis B. Godall of Sanford, Wallace H. White of Lewiston, John Peters of Ellsworth and Ira Hersey, Chief Justice Leslie C. Cornish of the Supreme Judicial Court, and former Governors William T. Cobb of Rockland, Frederick W. Plaisted of Augusta, Oakley C. Curtis of Portland and Carl E. Milliken of Island Falls.

Behind the bearers, and also in carriages, rode the new Governor, Percival P. Baxter, and his executive staff, members of the executive council, judges of the Supreme and Superior Courts, and members of the family.

Marcing at the rear were the legislative delegation, including most of the leaders in both branches and both parties; Mayor Francis L. Fogg and his citizens' committee and State department heads.

Rev. Alvah R. Scott, pastor of the Unitarian Church at Bangor, Governor Parkhurst's church, officiated. He was assisted by Rev. Paul Phalen of the Unitarian Church of Augusta and Rev. James H. Ecob of the South Parish Congregational Church.

The church was crowded to the doors during the brief funeral ceremonial, and thousands who could not get in waited for the funeral party to come out and start for the railroad station.

The body was taken to Bangor by special train, only the family, close friends and committees going along.

Burial was in Mt. Hope Cemetery there. Rev. Mr. Scott officiated at the grave.

ATTLEBORO ABUTTORS PROTEST ASSESSMENT

Attleboro, Feb. 3.—Claiming that the $15,000 assessment is "unjust, unlawful, confiscatory and unconstitutional," abuttors along the municipally owned Norton, Taunton & Attleboro street railway line have served the necessary fourteen-day notice on the city that a Supreme Court decision be asked and consequent action taken. If the court holds the tax to be illegal, the city will probably cease operation of the road, which is being run at a deficit of $1,000 monthly.

NEW HAMPSHIRE MAY HAVE NEW CITY

West Side of Manchester Wants to Secede and Set Up as "Derryfield

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 3.—Rumors of a secession of that part of the city lying on the west side of the river and the introduction of a bill in the Legislature to that effect and the granting of a city charter under the name of Derryfield are heard.

Senator Thomas J. [illegible] was stated that a bill would probably be introduced in the Senate through a committee, within a short time, and that a meeting of the Senators and Representatives coming from that side of the Merrimack will be called next week to consider the matter.

CLAIM SECTION NEGLECTED.

The movement, which is not looked upon with a great deal of concern by residents of the city as far as can be learned, is declared to be designed to secure a tenure of office by some of the Democrats who assert that the west side of the river has been neglected by the city government in making appropriations for needed improvements.

It is also said that feeling has been aroused because of the fact that the West Side was overlooked by Governor Brown in making his appointments to the recently created Highway Commission for the city in spite of the fact that members of the Legislature from that part of the city urged the names of men from the West Side wards for a position on the commission.

According to the plan the new city would take in all of Wards 10, 11, 12 and 13, Democratic strongholds. Also a part of Goffstown and a section of Bedford, including St. Anselm's College, and would assure a solid Democratic city government.

POPULATION OF 35,000.

It is claimed that the new city would have a population of 35,000, which would make it the second city in the State.

8 P. C. Renewal Rate for Call Loans Has Depressing Influence on Issues

By BROADAN WALL.

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

New York, [illegible] The general stock market showed a [illegible] tendency [illegible]. Losses were almost entirely [illegible] for the account of professionals who are [illegible] for further reaction [illegible] operators [illegible] oil shares were [illegible] further [illegible] in the trades [illegible] different [illegible]. The confusion attending the settlement of the German [illegible] practically disappeared as a market influence owing to the objections raised by the German Reichstag to the terms.

Initial prices showed fractional losses compared with the previous closing figures. Offerings were made at the expense of prices so that by mid-day losses ranging from a fraction to about two points were established. Pressure was renewed in the sugar and oil stocks.

A rallying tendency developed in the afternoon but the recovery exhausted itself before the close so that most shares closed with net losses for the session.

One depressing influence was the establishment of an 8 per cent. rate for the renewal of call loans. This is the highest renewal rate witnessed since November 17 of last year.

LEADERS SEEK A LOWER LEVEL

Oils, Steels and Rails Prominent in Morning Recessional; Tobaccos Are Firm

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at [illegible] a [illegible] above [illegible] for [illegible]. [illegible] rails and steels were prominent in the recessions but tobaccos resisted [illegible]. Trading was of less volume than that during yesterday morning, first hour transactions amounting to 182,[illegible] shares.

Call money opened at 8 per cent. Foreign exchange rates displayed further weakness. Demand sterling [illegible] cents lower at $3.85¾. [illegible] were down 1½ centimes and marks dropped four points.

Among weakest issues were Crucible, Mexican Petroleum, International Corporation, Atlantic Gulf, Baldwin, [illegible], Sears Roebuck, Northern Pacific, Utah Copper, Royal Dutch and Houston.

They were off from one to several points. Texas & Pacific was a strong and active issue advancing nearly two points. American Smelting was up a point at its highest.

LOWER PRICES AT START.

Prices were lower as a rule at the opening, but the decline [illegible] as heavy as it did at the start of the preceding session. Mexican Petroleum and Royal Dutch were the weakest oils, Crucible recorded the most among steels, and Northern Pacific sustained the largest rail loss. It also was the most active issue in its group. Most of the early trading was in oils, rails and steels. The opening was exceptionally quiet and fluctuations narrow. Selling pressure was general, but for a few minutes seemed to focus particularly upon oils. The most active of this kind of stocks showed the largest losses. Sugars, coppers, tires, motors, leathers and equipments eased off on comparatively few sales. Tobaccos were fractionally higher, showing the most group strength. Shipping stocks were a little lower with the exception of Atlantic Gulf, which was the weakest issue on the list at the end of half an hour.

BEARS MORE AGGRESSIVE.

The bear crowd, which constitutes about all of the professional traders is becoming more aggressive and is being sustained in its attitude by a high call rate and misgivings as to the situation in Europe. It is reported that most of yesterday's call loans were made at 9 per cent. and that banks were again called upon to provide funds for stock market requirements. Further cutting of commodity prices is creating doubts as to what will be the final bottom of the liquidating movement. The downward tendency is most manifest just now in grain, sugar and oil. Rumors that something is to be done to finance the sale abroad of an immense quantity of copper is having no effect upon the quotations for red metal.

Cotton Market

New York, Feb. 3.—The cotton market opened steady at a net decline of 17 to 33 points. Weak Liverpool cables, with pessimistic advices from Manchester, caused considerable realizing to which was added pressure from spot houses and Liverpool. LOCAL MARKET SAGS AT THE START

Trading on the Boston Exchange at a Minimum; Curb Dull and Down

The Boston market had a weak opening and prices a tendency toward a lower level during the morning. As has been the case before this week trading was confined to comparatively few issues. While most stocks declined they did not recede far. The market was narrow in all respects. Coppers were as quiet as ever and the majority unchanged. While little was done in packing shares it was enough to disclose their weakness. Rails seemed to be a little firmer. Motor accessories were wholly neglected in the forenoon. Allouez advanced a point on its first sale in several days and United Fruit opened a point lower, but quickly recovered half the loss. American Telephone sold frequently at [illegible] or a shade below it. This stock and United Shoe were leaders in [illegible] activity [illegible]. Copper Range was most in evidence among mines.

Small gains were made up to noon by American Woolen preferred, New Haven, United Shoe, Maine Central and Loew's Inc. Among issues to recede a little were Boston Elevated, Calumet & Arizona, Ventura, American Sugar common and preferred, Cuban, [illegible], Eastern Manufacturing, Fisk, Swift & Co., Swift International and Edison.

CURB ABOUT THE SAME.

The Curb market showed slight variation in tone or tendency at the opening this morning or later in the [illegible]. It was quiet and it was weak. Early leaders were Eureka and Verde Mines. Issues to advance at once included Alpha, Imperial and Silver Reef. Weak ones at the start were Arizona Tip Top, Crystal, Eureka, Mutual, Pilgrim, Randolph and United Verde Extension.

At the end of an hour gains included Verde Mines 2 cents at 34 cents and Alpha 6 cents at 69 cents. Among losses were Allied Mining 1 cent at 24 cents, Hecla Divide 1 cent at 10 cents and Mutual 2 cents at 46 cents. Silver Reef had lost its gain which Eureka had recovered.

GERMAN TRADE IS STEADILY EXPANDING

Exports Totalled $311,000,000 for 1920 as Compared to $92,000,000 in 1919

This country's trade with Germany is steadily expanding, exports during December being valued at $58,439,080 against $17,297,077 for the last month of 1919. For 1920 they totalled $311,437,377 as compared with $92,761,814 for 1919. December imports aggregated $[illegible],666,227 against $2,480,533 and for 1920 totalled $88,836,260 against $10,608,141 for the preceding year.

More Demand for Silk

The silk trade is improving in New York, according to latest reports and one of the largest houses has withdrawn offerings of fifteen of its forty active Spring lines because of improved buying. Buyers from interior cities who have not visited New York on business for two years were seen there last month.

Oil Well Statistics

According to the Oil City Derrick, January oil well completions east of the Rocky Mountains totaled 2,603, a decrease of 237. The new production amounted to 271,243 barrels, a gain of 40,000 barrels. The completions include 275 gas wells and 524 dry holes.

COPPER MEN TO HOLD IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

Members of the Copper Export Association will hold an important conference tomorrow and it will concern financing foreign sales of metal. A large part of the surplus has been allocated for shipment to Europe.

One proposal under consideration calls for a loan from bankers of from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 based upon copper at ten cents a pound and another is the issuance of debentures for an amount between the sums named by the Copper Export Association which would yield about 8 per cent. and run three or four years.

HAVERHILL LEATHER WORKERS GO ON STRIKE

Haverhill, Feb. 3.—A strike has been called by local No. 12 of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union at the Globe Leather Scrap Company, affecting twenty operatives. According to the union agents, the firm is seeking 25 per cent. pay reductions in leather heel operations.

City of Boston Surplus

The surplus of $3,817,249 with which the city of Boston begins its fiscal year is the largest in its history.

LOW PRICE LIKELY TO CUT SUGAR PRODUCTION

One probable effect of the low price quoted for raw sugar is curtailment of the crop in Cuba. According to a Boston authority cessation by many Cuban estates is inevitable. The coming crop is likely to be from 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 tons instead of 4,000,000 as previously estimated.

The war among refiners has reduced the price of refined sugar about 30 cents below the highest refinery quotations of last year. It is said that there is now from 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 tons of refined sugar in this country, or 100 per cent. more than is normal.

Municipal Loans

During January long time municipal loans were sold to the aggregate of $6,474,963 as compared with $36,932,551 for the first month of 1920. Short-term loans disposed of amounted to $8,105,000 against $101,[illegible].

New York Curb to Build

The building which will house New York curb brokers is to be erected on Trinity Place and it is intended to keep its cost at $1,125,000 or under.

Josiah Wedgwood Was a Plain Man
The Wedgwood Ware he invented, too, has little surface glaze, yet everyone knows the evidence of real richness a Wedgwood pitcher lends to a sideboard or table.
We had this in mind when we built our new Wedgwood Restaurant. You will find the evidence of it in the perfect service, the rare cooking, the real food, and in the solid comfort of the place itself, decorated in the Adam period.
Our increasing patronage is ample proof that men and women do like real richness rather than surface glaze, in the things they eat, and the place in which they eat.
Prices, too, are low, because of the efficiency of the great Ginter organization.

BOSTON COLLEGE FLYERS OUT TO TRIM HOLY CROSS IN RELAY

TEAMS TO RACE ON SATURDAY

Race for Blood Is Assured at B. A. A. Games in New Boston Arena

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Boston College supporters are awaiting with pleased anticipation the meeting of the relay quartets of B. C. and Holy Cross, at the annual B. A. A. meet at the Boston Arena Saturday night, for they are counting on a long-delayed victory over the Purple.

Until complete reports of the Brooklyn meet last Saturday came to B. C. such followers entertained some doubt as to the ability of Jake Driscoll, et al., to shake the Purple relay hoodoo, but with those reports in, it would seem that said hoodoo already has been shaken.

Press accounts concerning the relay event in which the Maroon and Gold took part, went into much detail concerning the fact that B. C. ran a dead heat with the crack aggregation from the University of Pennsylvania. Such tales did not include the information that Holy Cross also participated in that selfsame race and that Holy Cross finished fully twenty yards behind Jake Driscoll's crew. But such was the case, according to Joe Sullivan of the B. C. team, and thus it is that all doubts concerning B. C.'s ability to down the Purple has been removed from the minds of B. C. rooters.

Bart Sullivan Sees Hope for Purple

However, Bart Sullivan's Purple stars are not so sure B. C. can twice take their measure. Unnecessary loss of time in handling the baton, failure of at least one of the relay men to take the corners properly, and other correctable faults, are claimed to have been chiefly responsible for their downfall, and because they are correctable Holy Cross is not conceding B. C. the win until the tape has been cracked.

The meeting of these two teams at the B. A. A. meet promises to prove one of the feature attractions of a most attractive set of contests, and as each team will have a host of supporters in the huge audience it should develop the wildest cheering of the evening.

Because of the fact many of the special events at the meet will be inovations for a B. A. A. meet, and also because the circuit around the Arena will necessitate the covering of two less laps to the mile than was the case when the games were staged at Mechanics Building, it is expected that many new records will be set in the course of the evening.

Earl Thomson After New Record

Earl Thomson, the holder of several world's records in hurdle events, is said to be grooming himself for a new mark over the 50-yard course. Last year he set the 70-yard indoor record; the 120-yard and 110-meter out door marks on cinder tracks and the 120-yard record on a grass track, and if he is travelling in the form of last year there seems every reason to believe he will set a new mark in the 50-yard timber race.

Thomson will have few, if any real rivals in this race. His most advertised opponent is Frank Lewis, who set a new world's record to the 400 meter hurdle race at the Olympic games, but Frank has yet to disclose himself as a wonder over the shorter routes and barring an accident—such accidents always threatening to hurdle running—Thomson should parade to the finish, leading his field by a comfortable margin.

DEMPSEY BOXES WILLARD ON LABOR DAY

Price Limit on Seats in New York Forced Shifting of Date of Battle

By ED CURLEY.

New York, Feb. 3.—Jack Dempsey, world's champion, and Jess Willard will settle their little argument on Labor Day, September 2. This battle was originally scheduled for March 17, but on account of the price limit of $15 decreed by the New York Boxing Commission was put out of the running here.

The Dempsey-Carpentier bout will be held July 2, according to Tex Rickard's announcement.

Tex Rickard will stage the Dempsey-Willard battle, which will be an open-air event. At present it is the talk that the winner of the Dempsey-Carpentier affair will meet Willard and that naturally means Dempsey. Rickard intends to erect an outdoor arena in Greater New York early this Spring and transfer his fights to that spot. He will follow the precedent he established in the Garden and stage championship events on every possible occasion.

The contemplated arena will seat at least 50,000.

MORNING PRACTICE NOT ON COBB LIST

Detroit, Feb. 3.—Tyrus Cobb, the new manager of the Tigers, will revolutionize training methods of the players in the camp at San Antonio. He will eliminate morning practice and the 7.30 a. m. call.

Cobb has reasoned out that the morning practice to players is dangerous to their physical being. With morning practice at 9 o'clock, the players appear on the field with a full stomach, and strenuous exercise he says is harmful. A late breakfast and 2 o'clock practice is the program Cobb has practically decided upon.

The Price of Success

"Strangler" Lewis, the wrestler, went around for years using his headlock, but until he became champion no one ever paid any attention to the matter.

Other wrestlers used it, with as much murderous efficiency as Lewis. It is perhaps no more painful than the toe hold or other holds employed by wrestlers, for wrestling is a tough game.

We grant you it should be barred, as Mr. Curley, the wrestling promoter has barred it, though we have a suspicion that as he bars it, Mr. Curley, with his profound knowledge of the game, smiles to himself at the public outcry against the grip.

It is the penalty accruing to Mr. "Strangler" Lewis for his success. Had he been constantly thrown by his opponents, even though he used the headlock, you would have never heard much about the hold. Had Mr. Stecher remained champion long there would probably have been complaint about his "scissors."

George La Blanche, the marine, could have gone on using the pivot punch to the end of his fistic days had he not landed it on Jack Dempsey, "The Nonpareil." The Carlisle Indians could have stuck footballs under their sweaters until the Judgment Day had they not scored a touchdown against Harvard by the subterfuge.

It is success that attracts attention and criticism in sport as well as in every walk of life. You never heard of a method that fails. "Strangler" Lewis made the mistake of headlocking himself the championship.

Stories of Famous Fights

Sullivan Knocks Out Ryan

This is the twenty-seventh of a series of "Old-Time Fights" written by authorities on pugilism who were famous in their day. Others will follow.

This story is of the clash between "John L." and Paddy Ryan thirty-eight years ago. It was a battle between two game men and the gamer won. The battle was rather a short and terrific one. In the third round Sullivan started Ryan on the road to defeat when he laid him flat on his back with a terrific right-hander.

Ryan fought back determinedly, but after the fifth round his friends noticed that he showed signs of weakness. The men fought for $2,500 a side and each wagered $1,000 on the result.

There never has been a prize fight in America that created such a widespread interest as the match between Paddy Ryan of Troy, N. Y., and John L. Sullivan of Boston, for $2,500 a side and the championship of the world. The battle was fought at Mississippi City, Miss., on February 7, 1882. Sullivan weighed 193 pounds and Ryan 195 pounds.

Sullivan Wins in Ninth

The finish came in the ninth. When the men met in the centre of the ring they had little strength and both missed their leads. They quickly clinched, having tumbled together in their desire to do each other mischief, but Sullivan, being much the stronger man, delivered several telling right-handers to Ryan's jaw and temple. These knocked him about without his being able to return the blows, and sent poor Ryan down all in a heap.

Ryan Makes Gallant Fight

The game fellow had to allow his seconds to throw in the sponge in token of defeat, after one of the fiercest and most determined battles of modern times. The time of this round was eleven minutes. Throughout Ryan made a gallant fight and bore his punishment manfully. He was terribly punished and showed the signs of it on his body and head. No man could have borne such a succession of terrible blows with a better grace.

Rabbit to Get $12,500 for One Year's Work

Rabbit Maranville is out of luck—partially.

He is not going to get as much for shortstopping for the Pirates as Cobb is to receive for managing the Tigers; in fact, the Pittsburgh club has only promised to pay the midget $12,500 for his services this [illegible]

Trifling as this sum is it is more by 2,000 and odd smackers than Maranville managed to extract from the Boston Braves last year, a raise not to sneezed at in these parlous times.

The Rabbit is worth every nickel of the sum that the Pirates are going to pay him. In his new uniform he is going to be a bigger drawing card than ever and he is more than likely to put Pittsburgh back into a prominent position on the baseball map, a place they have not had since Honus Wagner was performing in Pirateville.

The moral runs to the effect that if you want to be up there making the other fellows hustle, you had better go and get a regular shortstop.

James McAleer, former Red Sox magnate, in the midst of a fan-fest in the long ago, took a baseball diagram and drawing his finger from the catcher's position through the pitcher's box and across second base into centre field, said, oracularly, "If you are strong along that line, you've got a ball club; if you are not, you have not."

Never was a truer word spoken. Good pitching tends to bring about straight out hitting and the shortstop, who normally plays nearer to the keystone sack than the second baseman does, has got to be of the sort that can go and get them.

The Rabbit is one of that kind. He should be a tower of strength in the Pittsburgh infield this year and should materially aid in keeping the Pirates up there, or thereabouts.

Miss Zinderstein in Lead on Courts

New York, Feb. 3.—Miss Marion Zinderstein had a successful and strenuous day in the annual invitation tennis tournament on the indoor courts of Heights Casino. After eliminating Miss Carona Winn in the singles, the Boston champion, assisted by Miss Eleonora Sears, defeated her opponent in the third round doubles and then came back and defeated Mrs. Theodora Sohst and Mrs. M. D. Straffin in the doubles semi-final.

Miss Zinderstein became the master of her stroke yesterday, which previously had been wild, and defeated Miss Winn in straight sets of 6—1 and 6—3.

Their Favorite Sport—and Why

Why? Perhaps because it is the game that best suits a fat man. Seriously, the walking and swinging provide the best exercise I know for a person who devotes himself to "brain-work."

I belong to the Dedham, Essex, Brae Burn [illegible] Neck, Winno and Norfolk clubs—at least that's all I can think of now—but at that I don't get on the course as often as I would like to.

The game I like best to watch is baseball. Don't know why; guess I must have inherited it. I like the boxing bouts too, and take them in whenever I get a chance.

CHAPTER TWO

Indicating Something of How This Mr. Stanford, or Stafford, Appears to Feel About It. With a Foot-note by Margie Daw

ALONG one wall of the large, crowded "city room" extended a row of cooplike rooms behind a seven-foot partition of ground glass and wood in which labored the somewhat favored individuals who headed editorial departments or wrote signed "features."

At about twenty minutes to six by the round watch [illegible] above the city editor's desk, the door labeled "Finance and Real Estate" opened and Abel H. Timothy appeared, buttoning his slightly spotted blue coat across his plump person. His wide, rather friendly mouth fitted comfortably about a long unlighted cigar on which was a [illegible] gold band, doubtless the gift of some one of the investment bankers with whom Abel was much thrown. His wide soft hat was tipped genially [illegible] back.

Half-way along the row he paused, glanced about the busy room, guardedly [illegible], straightened his cravat [illegible] and opened a few inches the door labeled, first, "Features" and then, under that, in smaller letters, "Miss Daw."

"Hello, Marge," he murmured, through the opening. "Are you eating a bite?"

Margie Daw looked up from her typewriter, glanced about as if from habit at the two desks nearer the window, which were, at the moment, closed, and then turned an almost demure face toward the corner behind the door.

Abel leaned in, peered around.

There, at a small desk, bending intently forward over a few sheets of copy paper on which he had apparently been drawing aimless diagrams and absurd faces of tramps and angels, in an old alpaca office coat that had been worn clear through at the elbows, sat a strange young man.

Abel's eyes opened wide in a mock stare, his under lip pressed its upper nearly against the somewhat flat nose above it.

Margie tapped the paper in her machine.

"I've got to finish this," she said.

Abel's mouth formed a silent "Oh!" Then aloud, he said "I'll be over at Philippe's." After which he softly closed the door, replaced his cigar, smoothed his coat, and went on out to the elevator.

Margie's typewriter ticked busily for as much as five minutes. Then, as she removed a sheet of paper, she looked around at the young man in the corner.

At that moment he raised his eyes.

"Nearly 6 o'clock," she said pleasantly enough, but unable wholly to conceal the curiosity in her eyes.

He was not looking at her. He seemed to be intent on something outside the window. She was not even sure that he heard until, after a long pause, he replied vaguely

"Oh, is it as late as that?"

She nodded. "I'll have to run out. We pick up a bite when we can here. If we don't get it early, we're likely not to get it at all."

He made no reply to this. A thought nettled, she added

"Of course, I don't know what work they've given you."

"They haven't given me any," said he, and sighed.

Margie glanced out the window; then turned back to the machine, lifted the carriage as if to examine the ribbon; considered.

"Haven't you got a typewriter?" she asked.

"No. I couldn't use one, anyhow."

"But you'll have to, I should think. They don't like to take longhand."

He had no reply to this. He seemed quite helpless.

A moment more and she heard him push back his chair.

Margie, covertly watching him, found her shoulders drawing up in a quick little shiver. What was the matter with him? Why didn't he move?

At length, still gazing at the wall, he took off the alpaca coat and [illegible] his street coat. Still [illegible] reached up, took the [illegible] and put it [illegible] reached up his hat, and stood by the door.

She replied in an almost snappy tone

"A good many go to Phillip's, around in the alley. But the Buffalo Lunch is [illegible] I was just going around there. It's [illegible] the way." And as [illegible] for her [illegible] little pocket [illegible]. "But I wouldn't wear that coat if I were you."

She saw him look uncomprehendingly down at the [illegible] over his [illegible], and herself moved to the door.

"Meet you at the elevator," she said briskly and rushed out.

He walked stiffly by her side [illegible] into the side street. Margie, who had chatted, in her time, with presidents of insurance companies, with theaters, pickpockets and belted earls, found it difficult to keep the conversation barely alive. Though he replied once or twice she wasn't sure that he heard what she said.

The Buffalo Lunch was conducted on the "cafeteria" plan. You went to various counters for your food and carried it yourself to a row of chairs, each of which had one wide arm that served for a table.

At the doorway the young man stopped short, studying the crowded, chattering interior from under knit brows. Margie stood on the step tapping one foot.

Finally he said: "I don't really want much. Just a cup of coffee, I guess. I'm not very hungry."

The price list, a large placard, was hung on a column just within the door. She saw now that his eyes were bent on it.

Once within she took him in charge, getting price slips for both, leading him to the counters and elbowing a way for him through the crowd. When she had her hot roast beef sandwich and coffee and he his coffee and roll, she led him to a post before two chairs whose occupants seemed nearly through, and there they stood, nibbling at their food, awaiting their turn. She was recovering herself now. She talked continuously, in a confidential tone.

"I heard you were going to work for Trent and Bevan both," she remarked, as they stepped out on the street.

"Well—something like that. They haven't told me much yet."

"You'll have your troubles. Bevan's all right when he's sober. When he's drunk a little he'll crowd you. Always gets very busy and exciting. Wants to make people think he's sober. And don't forget to praise any shows you may review for Trent."

"Why, I don't see how I can do that, unless——"

"But if criticism means anything, it——"

"Criticism doesn't mean anything. Praise means advertising. And, besides, Archie Trent's got his own fences to look after."

"Oh," he breathed, deep in thought. "I—h'm * * * I never thought of that."

"My dear Mr.—Mr. Stafford, you're in a rough world. You've got to keep your wits [illegible]."

"So it seems," he said, bitterly.

She caught his sleeve and drew him off the crowded sidewalk into a doorway.

An Offer of Help

"Look here!" she said. "I don't want to see you get in wrong the first thing. It's lucky for you you're in my room. The thing for you to do is to bring your troubles to me. I've got a trained ear. Until you learn the ropes, you know."

"That's kind of you," he murmured.

"Not particularly. But I can help you."

"I'm sure you can. You see, I'm not used to—my life has been so very—everything's been so different——"

He clamped his lips shut. A frightened expression crept in about his eyes. He turned away.

"I guess I'll take a little walk," he remarked. "I suppose a few minutes more or less don't matter."

And he rushed off.

"DO you believe in them yourself?"

"Why—I don't know—I've never thought. I don't suppose I do, literally—not in those I have mentioned."

"And you think it right to teach things to your children which you do not yourself believe?"

"How am I to decide?" she demanded.

"First by finding out yourself what you do believe," he replied, with a touch of severity.

"Mr. Hodder!" she cried in a scandalized voice, "do you mean to say that I, who have been brought up in the church, do not know what Christianity is?"

He Shook His Head

He looked at her and shook his head.

"You must begin by being honest with yourself," he went on, not heeding her shocked expression. "If you are really in earnest in this matter I should be glad to help you all I can. But I warn you there is no achievement in the world more difficult than that of becoming a Christian. It means a conversion of your whole being, something which you cannot now even imagine. It means a consuming desire which, I fear, in consideration of your present mode of life, will be difficult to acquire."

"My present mode of life!" [illegible] gasped.

"Precisely," said the rector. He was silent, regarding her. There was discernible not the slightest crack or crevice in the enamel of this woman's worldly armor.

For the moment her outraged feelings were forgotten. The man had fascinated her. To be told, in this authoritative manner, that she was wicked was a new and delightful experience. It brought back to her the real motive of her visit, which had in reality been inspired not only by the sermon of the day before, but by sheer curiosity.

"What would you have me do?" she demanded.

"Find yourself."

"Do you mean to say that I am not—myself?" she asked, now completely bewildered.

"I mean to say that you are nobody until you achieve conviction."

For Charlotte Plimpton, nee Gore, to be told in her own city, by the rector of her own church, that she was nobody was an event hitherto inconceivable. It was perhaps as extraordinary that she did not resent it. Curiosity still led her on.

"Conviction?" she repeated. "But I have conviction, Mr. Hodder. I believe in the doctrines of the Church."

"Belief!" he exclaimed, [illegible] checked himself strongly. "Conviction through feeling. Not until then will you find what you were put in the world for."

"But my husband—my children? I try to do my duty."

"You must get a larger conception of it," Hodder replied.

"I suppose you mean," she declared, "that I am to spend the rest of my life in charity."

"How you would spend the rest of your life would be revealed to you," said the rector.

It was the weariness in his tone that piqued her now, the intimation that he did not believe in her sincerity, had not believed in it from the first. The life-long vanity of a woman used to be treated with consideration, to be taken seriously, was aroused. This extraordinary man had refused to enter into the details which she inquisitively craved. Charlotte Plimpton rose.

"I shall not bother you any longer at present, Mr. Hodder," she said sweetly. "I know you must have, this morning especially, a great deal to trouble you."

He met her scrutiny calmly.

"It is only the things we permit to trouble us that do so, Mrs. Plimpton," he replied. "My own troubles have arisen largely from a lack of faith on the part of those whom I feel it is my duty to influence."

It was then she delivered her parting shot, which she repeated, with much satisfaction, to her husband that evening. She had reached the door.

"Was there a special service at Calvary yesterday?" she asked innocently, turning back.

"Not that I know of."

"I wondered. Mr. Parr was there, I'm told—and he's never been known to desert St. John's except on the rarest occasions. But oh, Mr. Hodder, I must congratulate you on your influence with Alison. When she has been out here before she never used to come to church at all."

Bobby, aged two, watched mother combing her hair. The hair was arranged so that both ears were nearly uncovered. Evidently Bobby had never seen them that way before. Suddenly he cried "O-oh, mama, your ears is loose!"

The Linguist

"Monsieur requires?" —— the patient Parisian waiter, vainly endeavoring to induce his stubborn customer to speak English. "Voulez-vous" —— began the customer for the twentieth time, while the waiter's head swam. At last a tourist seated opposite looked up from his Anglo-French pocket dictionary, "If I may assist you, sir"—— But the customer, swelling with importance, waived him haughtily aside. "Kindly allow me to use my own French!" he snapped. "By all means," answered the tourist blandly. "But I wish to point out that you are asking for a staircase when all you require is a spoon."

The Good and the Bad in Us

WHO HAS ALL THE ONE OR ALL THE OTHER?

Beatrice Fairfax Writes on Our Two Soul Sides and Asks Who Is to Judge Without Understanding

By Beatrice Fairfax,

Who Occupies a Unique Position as a Writer on Romance and Its Problems.

A GREAT poet once raised his voice in thankfulness because each man had two soul sides—"one to face the world with, and one to show a woman when he loves her."

All through life mankind shows the two tendencies—the fighting quality that has lifted him on and up in the world and the gentleness and tenderness toward all things that develops into love when it focuses on one thing.

Recently there was much stir over an ugly divorce case in which the husband mercilessly revealed to the world what he had ferreted out concerning his wife's attitude toward another man. The woman was condemned. Her life seemed to reduce itself to terms of this, and this alone. She was felt to be a faithless wife.

The Blackest Crime

Now I, myself, have felt always that treachery is the blackest of crimes. And when a wife is faithless to herself and the man she has sworn to love, she is treacherous to him, to herself and to society, as well as to all the highest standards toward which we are forging in the march of civilization. So if there is anyone in the world toward whom I would not incline with mercy and toleration it must be a woman who has betrayed her husband—and her best self.

Yet, a few days after the greatest publicity had been given to the ugly, sinful and tawdry side of this weak woman's life, a man came to me to ask me if I thought it as fair for all the world to be dwelling on her wrong-doing and forgetting the record of cleanness and strength and well-doing that had gone before. This heroine of scandal has a pathetic history of good—behind her.

All during the war this woman had given lavishly of her services in a difficult post. She had worked hard, and without splurge or pomp. She accomplished big things. When the war hysteria died down [illegible] went on into other good works growing out of the activity into which she had been engaged.

Four years of her life were given to big, fine, noble things. Then weakness marred the character she was building, and the woman who should stand before her world as a sister of mercy—one to march somewhere in the noble procession headed by Clara Barton and Florence Nightingale—is held up to scorn and shame with the "dark ladies" of history.

How shall we read her life?

Is it a lesson that pride does indeed go before a fall? Are we to feel humbly that none can be sure of himself and that all must take heed to go warily? If we take it this way, then we must also read out of it the lesson of tolerance for weakness and forgiveness for blunderings.

Is this just another illustration that each of us may somewhere meet the temptation that he cannot withstand and so must prepare himself and train toward the strength with which to fight through?

Another Illustration

Or does it remind us that we mustn't judge till we know? For it has been written, "To know all is to forgive all"—and so perhaps there may be something in the story of the woman given over for four years to good deeds that will today lighten her burden of guilt and make her wrongdoing less black than it seems.

To me it seems to show that life is too vast and too difficult for snap judgments founded on cruelty and vindictiveness. Temptation may assail and conquer the strongest. There may be hidden in those who seem most wicked something that is good and fine and big. But above all it behooves us to remember that there is no evil greater than our way of remembering evil and forgetting good.

In all the stories of this woman's downfall no mention has been made of the good that seemed once to be of her. No word is said today in her defence. The good does not seem to count for her. It's cruel—but true. And it points a moral—and a warning!

Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis.

'TIS an age given over to speeding by members of every known class; folks refuse to believe they're succeeding unless they are burning gas. Time was when old Dobbin could take us if we wanted to drive out in state; now the sight of a buggy would make us lament on our terrible fate. The auto was quite satisfying, or so we believed for a while; but now nothing suits us but flying if we hope to be really in style. So we speed when we are going to meeting, and we haste when we hike to the store, we don't stop to chew when we're eating, and when talking we speed a bit more. Thus with never a moment for pleasure and never a second for play, and never a pausing for leisure, we are speeding along on our way. Oh, it's well to be speedy in going, but it's best to be sure where you go, and the only A1 way of knowing is to take things a little bit slow.

As a Woman Thinketh

BY HELEN ROWLAND

BE my Friend, Beloved!

This is all I ask—but it is no little thing.

In the name of Friendship do not endow me with all the virtues of a saint—and then expect me to live up to them!

Do not place me on a pedestal.

Pedestals are SO slippery—and halos SO hard to keep on straight!

It is inspiring to be worshipped—but it is more comfortable to be "liked." You can worship me blindly—but you can LIKE me with your eyes wide open. And to keep a man "blinded" forever is a life work!

Be my Friend!

Do not cover me with illusions, and invest me with all the charms of a Circe, and the mystery of the Sphinx.

Infatuation is thrilling, exhilarating—for a little while; but, like wine, it wears off and is apt to leave you with a headache, a heartache and that "Oh-what's the use" feeling.

Do not make me play the "siren."

Be my Friend!

Do not cherish me as a fragile flower or a delicate bit of bric-a-brac.

Chivalry is beautiful—but do not lay down a cloak for me to walk upon. Take me by the hand and let us walk together, play together, dance together, race together, climb together to the summit of Life; and then, together, limp down the hill, still keeping step, through the sunset of the years.

Be my Friend!

Do not ask me to grow WINGS!

I may change the color of my hair to please you, but I cannot change the color of my soul, nor the shape of my brain, nor the quality of my character.

Help me to live up to my best, my very highest—but do not ask me to live up to another woman, nor to an impossible Ideal!

For marriage may be a refinery—but it is not a reformatory!

Be my Friend!

Look at me with clear, friendly, approving, loving eyes—not through rose colored glasses, nor through blue spectacles, nor through a microscope.

And when you discover a fault or a failing, say of me as of a friend: "Well, that's just her way!"

Be my Friend, Beloved—

Not my worshipper, my adorer, my guardian, my critic, my reformer, my overseer, my slave nor my sultan—

Just my Friend!

For surely, in the trials and problems of married life, if ever, is the time

"When a woman needs a FRIEND!"

Rules Governing Movie Player Identity Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Moving Picture Players' Identification Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by these two newspapers to their readers who submit the largest percentage of correct identifications to the 120 pictures to be published in these two newspapers.

All employes of the Boston American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser, and their families, and all moving picture players and persons connected with the moving picture industry are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The Test will consist of 120 pictures of favorite moving picture players, to be printed two each day, in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture Sunday, December 19, 1920.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which shall be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar anyone from entering this Test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each set must contain only ONE identification to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award, and not more than one award shall be given in any one family.

Each and every identification must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser or on a page of some book form by itself, accompanied either by the picture furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser, or a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each identification blank.

Do not send your identification in "list" form, i. e., do not write identifications under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are no complete sets of correct identifications awards will be given to the persons submitting the largest percentage of correct identifications.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and exact accuracy in spelling, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way, the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their identifications before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your identifications from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first identifications sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All identifications must be delivered to the Boston American Movie Test Headquarters, at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., either by mail or in person within specified time limit, which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing identifications must be legibly addressed as follows: "Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., P. O. Box 239," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all identifications will contain written or printed matter, if mailed, it is absolutely necessary that the package be fully prepaid at postal letter rates, as mail of this character goes to the postoffice as first class matter. The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to refuse to consider any sets of identifications on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass. Questions will be answered, as far as possible, through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such reply, or they may phone Main 5180, or call in person.

The Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserves the right to make any change in, or addition to, these conditions that may be deemed necessary for fairly and properly conducting the test, and the decision of the Boston American Movie Test Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final. The entry of a participant is a declaration of acceptance of all conditions now made.

TOURING CAR LEAPS SEA WALL—Police have been dragging New York Harbor, near Fort Hamilton, in an effort to find the bodies of possible occupants of this "mystery" car which plunged over the sea wall. WHALER HAS GREAT EXPERIENCES—The whaler Herman, which arrived in San Francisco the other day with a record load of whale-meat, bearskins, etc., had a perilous trip during the weeks it spent in the frozen Arctic. During the expedition the schooner was caught in many ice-jams which threatened to crush the boat as Shackelton's ship was crushed. For a time the Herman was frozen in. It was during this period that the crew took to hunting grizzly bears with such remarkable success. The above photographs were taken during the trip. (c) Kadel & Herbert

SHE COMES NEAREST TO "PERFECT"—Marie A. Kuhn, seventeen, of New York, has been awarded a diploma as the result of her selection as the most nearly perfect girl of her age in the graduating class of a high school. She loves art, athletics and housekeeping. Some combination. (c) U. & U.

SHOE MEN TO REFUSE 20 PER CENT. WAGE CUT

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 3.—According to statements of members of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union in this city the workers in the F. M. Hoyt shops will refuse a 20 per cent. reduction in wages. Following the announcement by Hovey E. Slayton, president of the company, that such a reduction would become effective Monday next, Alfred Richards, local agent of the union, got in touch with Charles Baine, national president, at Boston, and was instructed, it is said, to refuse to accept any cut at this time.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

A Cincinnati Barber Tells How to Make a Remedy for Gray Hair.

A well known resident of Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been a barber for more than forty years, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the most delicate scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

The Tell Tale of Gray Hair

To be judged ten years older than you actually are, is the tell-tale of gray, streaked hair, which detracts from a youthful appearance as much as a wrinkled face does.

Women, everywhere, prefer the easy, harmless "[illegible] method that tints gray, streaked, faded or bleached hair, instantly, to any shade of brown or black.

Without injury to hair or scalp, "Brownatone" imparts natural, lasting colors that defy detection. Does not rub or wash off; and requires just a few moments to apply.

Guaranteed absolutely harmless. Druggists everywhere sell and recommend "Brownatone." Two sizes—50c and $1.50 with easy, complete directions. Two colors—shading from "Golden to Medium Brown" and "Dark Brown to Black."

Special Free Trial Offer

For a free trial bottle of "Brownatone" send to The Kenton Pharmacal Co., 600 Coppin Bldg., Covington, Ky., enclosing 11c to pay postage, packing and war tax.

AFRAID TO EAT MEALS

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the best Antacid and Stomach Regulator known

When your meals don't fit and you feel uncomfortable, when you belch gases acids or raise sour, undigested food, when you feel lumps of indigestion pain, heartburn or headache from acidity, just eat a tablet of harmless and reliable Pape's Diapepsin and the stomach distress is gone.

Millions of people know the magic of Pape's Diapepsin as an antacid. They know that most indigestion and disordered stomach are from acidity. The relief comes quickly, no disappointment! Pape's Diapepsin helps regulate your stomach so you can eat favorite foods without fear, and a box of these world-famous stomach tablets cost so little at drug stores. —Advertisement.

Combing Won't Rid Hair Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Advertisement.

SIMPLE APPLICATION THAT DISSOLVES BLACKHEADS

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those unsightly blemishes, blackheads. There is one simple, safe and sure way to get them out and that is to dissolve them. To do this just get about two ounces of calonite powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub briskly over the blackheads for a few seconds—wash the parts and every blackhead will be gone.

Pinching and squeezing out blackheads make large pores and you cannot get all of the blackheads out this way—while this simple application of calonite powder and water dissolves every particle of them and leaves the skin and pores in their natural condition. Any druggist will sell you the calonite powder and about two ounces is all you will ever need.—Advertisement.

SCHOOL LUNCH DISPLAY FOR HEALTH WEEK

Mothers to Be Shown Proper Methods of Preparing Food for Children

Mrs. Mother, what do you do for your child's school lunch?

Do you depend upon the bakeshop next to the school house and let little Adoniram or young Hepzibah go there and spend 10 cents for eclairs, sugared doughnuts and mince pie?

Or do you give that child several home-made sandwiches which the child brings back each day asking for something different? What do you do about the school lunch or have you ever thought?

The school lunch question is going to be solved in scientific palatable detail by people who know the way to make a child's lunch light enough and nourishing enough and tempting enough to give the child what he should eat and make him want to eat what which he should.

And the place where the question is going to be solved is at Paul Revere Hall, Mechanics' Building, Health Week, February 8 to 12, when Mrs. Arthur B. Bixby, Chairman of the Nutritional Commitee, and Miss Elizabeth Schermerhorn, of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, are going to show model school lunches and explain how they should be put up.

Containers for the lunch and for hot drinks will also be shown.

But that's not all. Have you, tired puzzled housekeeper, ever wondered how to spend the family food money, and if you were ordering the right things in the right proportion. If you have you'll be interested in the exhibit. And if you haven't you'll have a new idea presented.

The Nutritional Committee is going to show ideal grocery orders for a family of five, ideal meals for children, and charts, panels and photographs on nutrition, endorsed by the Child Welfare Association.

Nor are the minute details of child welfare to be neglected. For instance, many young mothers have wondered just what to get for the baby. Now is their chance to get straight "dope."

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health is going to show young mothers how to bathe a baby right. They're going to show a model, simple layette. A sleeping bag, the right kind for a child, will be a feature.

Also a good old-fashioned clothes basket turned by a little art into a model crib.

Something mother ought to know; something father ought to know; something big brother and sister ought to know; something the youngsters should know themselves—all these will be shown Health Week.

COVERS INTRUDER WITH GUN TILL POLICE COME

Michael O'Hara, thirty-one years old, claiming to live on Warren avenue, South End, was arrested by the police of the East Dedham street station when they arrived at the store of Charles Zadian, at No. 109 Dartmouth street and found the prisoner backed into a corner and the proprietor standing over him with a revolver.

According to the story of the shop keeper the prisoner attempted to steal a $5 bill from the cash drawer and while in the act Zadian covered him with the gun and sent the next customer who entered the store for the police. At the station house O'Hara was charged with larceny.

DEFICIT GROWS TO 20 BILLIONS IN AUSTRIA

Gluttony and Famine, Gayety and Distress Rub Elbows In Vienna

By International News Service.

Vienna, Feb. 3.—The deficit of Austria now totals the gigantic sum of 100,000,000,000 kronen, or $20,000,000,000, estimated upon the pre-war value of te kronen.

Announcement to this effect was made today following Cabinet sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday to consider the budget and to take steps to secure financial aid. The first measure to cope with the financial troubles provided for doubling the duties on bread, sugar and tobacco. Postage has been increased 100 per cent. and a 50 per cent. increase was put upon railway freights.

Vienna is a city of tragic contrasts. Gulttony and famine, debauchery and disease, wealth and poverty and gayety and distress rub elbows.

Ninety per cent. of the population is in a state of utter misery. The remaining 10 per cent., enriched by gambling, graft and profiteering and living amidst mad extravagance. The carnival season—the gayest time of the year in pre-war days—is here with dancing, singing and drinking from evening until dawn.

Twenty thousand kronen were charged for a box at the carnival ball, but this price proved too steep even for the English and even with the exchange rates overwhelmingly in their favor. However, 3,000 Austrians attended. Tickets were sold out three weeks in advance.

During the carnival festivities almost every other building in some quarters was converted into a cafe, where passers-by were invited to drown their cares in champagne—at 3,000 kronen per bottle.

While all this hectic gayety marks some parts of the city the inhabitants of the poorer quarters walk with drooping heads and faltering steps and with tragedy in their eyes. Ragged women with gaunt faces, clutching babies beneath their dirty shawls, pass by the wives and daughters of the profiteers, who are attired as brilliantly as any Parisian.

The "smart" shops are filled with a profusion of elegant goods, but the price tags take one's breath away. The cheapest article costs a month's salary for the ordinary Austrian. For instance, an overcoat of English cloth commands 34,000 kronen.

'FIND SCIENTIFIC WAGE,' SAYS CARTWRIGHT

Californian Urges Labor and Employers to Stop Fighting and Start Figuring

"Wages may be too high or too low. There is a scientific wage, which we will one day discover, which may solve the industrial problem of America."

Mr. Cartwright said, in part:

"Between the two extremes of too high and too low wages, there is a scientific wage. When the two partners discover this fundamental truth they will put their feet under the same table and figure out this scientific wage.

"Let the future slogan of industry be, 'Stop fighting and commence figuring.'

NOTE OF WARNING.

"If wages are too high in any country, the first to sound the note of warning should be the labor leader. If he is looking to the welfare of his constituents and not his own advancement in the organization, this will be his future course.

"Students have learned, and all our people should know, that the higher the wage, the higher the cost of living.

"Many of us have learned, and the rest of us must be taught, that labor pays its own wages. Capital does not pay wages. It never did. Labor must not permit it to do so. If we could devise a scheme by which wages would be paid by capital, capital would speedily fade away.

NECESSARY PARTNERS.

"All of us agree that employer and employe are necessary partners in the world's great field of production and distribution. Yet when we look back over the industrial field for the past forty years we find these two partners arrayed against each other in hostile camps.

"Suppose employers should so combine as to succeed in beating labor into submission. We would have sullen and unwilling workers not worth their salt. Suppose our workingmen, under misguided leadership, should succeed in beating capital, so-called, into submission. Capital seeks safety in hiding at the first sign of danger.

"Workingmen are tremendously interested in the stability of business. At the first sign of danger they should rush to its defence. No business, no employment. No employment, no business. You cannot injure either of the partners without hurting both."

WORCESTER TO DINE "INVISIBLE GUEST"

The Harpooned Whale Comes to the Surface

Armour & Co., the Chicago Beef Packers, sends us the following letter with reference to an editorial criticism of the price charged for some Australian lamb sold in Boston:

Editor of Boston American,
Dear Sir:

We have an editorial clipping purporting to be from your issue of January 8 which starts off: "A member of the American staff has dropped us the following suggestion for an editorial. 'The Supreme Court says secondary boycotts are illegal, but gentlemen's agreements among the packers and other kinds of agreements among powerful financial interests still flourish unwhipped of justice. The Beef Trust recently landed Australian lamb in the Boston market at a cost to the great Beef Trust of 13 cents the pound. It sold the lamb in Boston first for 35 cents the pound. Then it magnanimously met the new level of prices by reducing it to 18 cents a pound.'"

Permit us likewise to suggest an editorial. Let it point out the fact that perishable products, such as meat, are sold on a trading basis, which means that the owner gets the best price he is able under conditions of supply and demand. Point out further that there are times when sales involve losses, which offset the profits on other sales. Record the fact that the profits made by Armour and Company through the sale of New Zealand lambs were more than wiped out by the losses sustained in the sale of domestic lambs and that the Company's lamb business as a whole was conducted at a loss during the period when greatest profits were being made on the imported meats.

You might also editorialize on the injustice of using the term "BEEF TRUST" as descriptive of the American Meat Packers. This Company for one is not party to any agreement or understanding which in any way justifies the use of the term "Trust" in connection with us.

These suggestions are submitted in all sincerity and we hope to hear from you relative to them.

Very truly yours,
Armour and Company,
(Signed) R. D. MacManus.

Mr. MacManus objects to the characterization of Armour & Co. as a Beef Trust. The basis of the objection is rather technical. The word "Trust" has become now an economic idiom which includes a substantial monopoly whether it is in the form of an agreement among independent operators or is in the form of single ownership. The common use of the word "Trust" is not with reference to a trust agreement but with reference to the character and extent of the monopoly represented by the interest called "Trust." Under this definition we think that Armour & Co. will concede that it is a trust.

With reference to the other points in justification for prices charged for Australian lamb, they are assertions of fact which are beyond our present knowledge. We publish them to be fair to Armour & Co. without either admitting or denying them.

Change in Constitution for People to Ratify

Representative Davis B. Keniston of Massachusetts has introduced a resolution memorializing Congress in favor of an amendment to our National Constitution, providing that future amendments of our National Constitution shall be ratified by the people of the States and not by the Legislatures.

This is a good resolution. It ought to be passed. It is in the line of progress toward a more democratic form of government. The nearer we get to the people the more democratic we shall be and the less danger there is of minority control which leads to revolutions and anarchy. Revolutions and anarchy do not come from the wrongs of the great mass of the people, but from the wrongs committed by the small privileged minorities.

It is in the line of American constitutional development. We had for years the election of the United States Senators by the Legislatures. It did not work well. Quite recently we have amended the Constitution so as to provide for the election of our United States Senators by a direct vote of the people. An amendment of the Constitution itself is of infinitely more importance than the election of a whole Senate, and the people ought to decide on such an amendment by a direct vote.

THE EFFORT IS NOT WASTED

Have you ever thought out what you would do in case you lost your present position?

Could you hold a job in any other profitable line of work?

Are you prepared to fill a position better than the one you now have?

Would it be necessary for you to step down the ladder in search of work and take something not nearly as good?

You hope not, but the chances are that you could not find anything as good as what you have at the present time, certainly wages no better.

It might be well for you to study the matter from every angle and then count yourself so lucky that you work a little harder to be worth to the firm what you are now getting.

Retrenchment is the order of the day, and if you want and need the same high wages you must produce more and more to make it up to the firm which has to cut the corners carefully now in business readjustment.

More Truth Than Poetry

Cooled Off

By S. E. KISER

THREE years ago I heard him cheer;
His actions bordered on the frantic;
To him "the boys" were very dear—
The ones beyond the wide Atlantic;
He raved about the gratitude
And lasting love that they were earning;
His trembling voice was always loud
In those days when he joined the crowd
In singing "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

"GIVE till it hurts!" he used to yell;
"It's for the boys and their protection;
We must not fail in proving well
Our never-perishing affection!"
Tears used to trickle down his cheeks.
His voice was husky with emotion;
He told the world, three years ago,
That he was proud to let it know
About his deep, sincere devotion.

BUT ask him now how much he cares,
And he will have no time to listen;
His thoughts are fixed on large affairs,
No tears now cause his eyes to glisten!
Say bonus to him, and he raves—
"Good Lord! More taxes?" he inquires;
"The war is over! Why the deuce
Be bothered further? What's the use?"
He has no voice to sing "Home Fires."

HIS dreams are not disturbed at all
Because maimed soldiers die neglected;
"If hardship crowds them to the wall,
"It's only what should be expected!"
Hysteria has left him cool,
He has no heart for frantic cheering;
The fires that once so brightly burned
He feeds no more, but, unconcerned,

Woman 'Raffles' New Mystery

WHO is the man with the "hypnotic eyes" who has been making Mrs. Charlotte A. Ruickholdt, beautiful wife of a New Haven physician, defraud merchants of New York and other cities of thousands of dollars' worth of clothes and jewels?

Or is he merely a part of the imagination of the clever woman whose operations for months baffled all efforts of the authorities to capture her and stop the series of daring impostures which have made her notorious?

That is a question which the police are now trying to solve—without great success. Meanwhile, the story of Mrs. Ruickholdt's operations, stranger than fiction, is taking up the attention of the public.

What could the police be expected to accomplish against an impostor clever enough to imitate a woman's voice so well that the mother of the person impersonated was deceived? And who on another occasion deceived a friend into wiring $1,000 to New York for the relief of his cousin, whom Mrs. Ruickholdt impersonated over the telephone?

These are only two of the extraordinary feats of the woman who finally was captured through one little slip which she made, as all criminals do sooner or later. Read the full story of her exploits in the Magazine Section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, one of the most wealthy women in the world, is to live in the slums of New York, near a coal dock and surrounded by East Side tenement neighbors. Why? Nobody seems to know. Read the details of her plan for a luxurious home amid the city's hovels, appearing in the Magazine Section on Sunday.

Audrey Munson's memoirs of life in the art studios of New York deal this week with the famous Lady Constance Richardson, dancer, and with Mabel Normand, well-known actress. She tells how both these ladies posed for art works which later became famous, and relates interesting stories of artists whose lives were made miserable by the jealous feeling which their wives entertained toward the models by whose help hubby made his living. Read the current instalment in the Magazine Section on Sunday.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By K. C. B.

Dear K. C. B.:
I laughed and wept with you in far Seattle,
I followed you to San Francisco, too.
New York may be my future scene of battle—
Who knows? I'm on your trail, old friend and true.

Now tell me, K. C. B., no idle prattle,
But just straight goods as you've shot from the start;
New York or San Francisco or Seattle—
Which lies the nearest to your inmost heart?
MAUD H. FARR, San Francisco, Cal.

MY DEAR Maud.
IF YOU'VE a wish.
THAT I should say.
THAT OF the three.
I LIKE Seattle best.
THEN YOU'VE your wish.
OR IF it is.
YOU'D HAVE me say.
THAT SAN FRANCISCO.
IS MY greater love.
THEN I'LL say that.
OR IF you want.
THAT I should say.
MY INMOST heart.
FINDS GREATER warmth.
IN LITTLE Old New York.
I'LL SAY it does.
FOR AFTER all.
I ASK you, Maud.
WHAT MATTERS it.
WHAT TOWN I like,
OR WHAT its name.
OR WHERE it is.
IF IT be true.
AND IT is true.
WE COUNT our love.
IN FRIENDS we've made.
AND SO it is.
I LOVE them all.
AND YOU'RE my friend.
AND WHERE you are.
OR WHERE you go.
I'LL LIKE the town.
FOR I will know.
THAT YOU are there.
AND I'VE a friend.
WITHIN ITS gates.

I THANK you.

The Spectator

WHAT'S YOUR HURRY?

HURRY spoils work.

It is a sign of weakness.

"A gentleman," said Lord Chesterfield, "is never in a hurry."

There's something in that, for the idea perhaps is that the gentleman does all things in a fine and high way, with no awkwardness in his movements, and with the least offense in his effort.

And hurry is a mark of vulgarity.

Worse than that, it is an indication that we are not equal to our task. Hurry means incompetency.

It breeds innumerable wish-I-hadn'ts.

It is safe to say that nine-tenths of the automobile smash-ups are directly caused by somebody's being in a hurry.

The unfortunate victim is caught in the elevator because the operator was in a hurry.

The pupil's lesson is imperfect, and he gets a low mark, because he was in a hurry.

The dinner is spoiled and the hostess humiliated because the cook was in a hurry.

The manuscript the young writer submits to the publisher is rejected because it was written in a hurry.

The book is not interesting, it is amateurish and second-rate, because the author was in a hurry.

The painting is ineffective and the statue is unconvincing, because the artist was in a hurry.

Hurry breeds nervousness. The woman comes to the end of her day with her nerves a-jangle, her back aching and her head heavy, because all day she has hurried; she never had, or never took, the time to do things with system and [illegible].

Hurry and Worry are twins.

Many a boy ruins his career and handicaps himself for life by leaving high school before graduation, because he is in a hurry to get into business.

Many a foolish couple spend their lives in friction and unhappiness, because they got married in a hurry.

The engine breaks down, the bridge collapses, the wall topples, the manufactured product is rejected for defectiveness, because workmen were careless and in a hurry to get the job done.

Battles are lost because generals were in a hurry.

Laws are passed that do infinite mischief because they were enacted in a hurry without due deliberation.

Lives are lost because the surgeon was in a hurry.

Most of the failures that have tumbled into the pit of incompetency got there by being in a hurry.

Hurry is the penalty often for lack of forethought.

If you want to get there on time, start in time, don't wait till the last minute, and then hurry.

If you have a lot to do, and are bewildered with the many things before you take a while to sit down quietly, think it all out, set your tasks in order, make a program, use system, and then you can unhurriedly do one thing at a time and accomplish vastly more than trying to do three things at once.

Use your head to save your heels. By using your head you may even save your neck.

Hurry nothing. No matter how much you may have to do, if you take time to do first things first, and use order and care, you will go farther and fare better.

Haste makes waste just as surely now as it did in Ben Franklin's day. And the longest way round is still often the shortest way home.

In fine, if you would be (1) efficient, (2) skillful, (3) healthy, (4) unworried, (5) safe, (6) agreeable to others, (7) well bred, and (8) happy—don't hurry.

But keep moving.

To the Editor

For Soldier Bonus

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir—Permit me to tell you that I am a daily reader of your paper. Your editorials in favor of soldiers' bonus have impressed me very much, one perhaps a little more than any others, that in your issue of January 24. It brought out much information with which I was not acquainted. That phase in particular with reference to bonuses paid by other nations supposedly much poorer than ourselves. There is no question in my mind but that this information has enlightened many formerly unfamiliar with the situation.

I do believe that few of us former service men who slept in the mud of France fully appreciate the good work which has been carried on by the Boston American for some time in an effort to give the men what rightfully belongs to them.

You are to be commended for the splendid work you are doing, and I sincerely hope that your efforts will not be in vain. I am certain that they will not.

ON GETTING ALONG WITH PERSONS

By Damon Runyon

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

THEO. SWAN, address No. 105 Westminster avenue, Atlantic City, asks if I will oblige with a few remarks on "How to Get Along With Persons."

This is a rather difficult subject.

For all I know, I may be one of those persons who are difficult to get along with. I think not, but perhaps I am not a good judge. Perhaps some of my friends say behind my back that they simply cannot get along with me.

Still, I think not, because I have few quarrels and many friends. It has been my observation that the fellow who is "hard to get along with" has many quarrels and few friends.

I have seen but one or two men I couldn't get along with, and I suppose they are the same men who say they couldn't get along with me. I think they were at fault. No doubt, they say I was to blame.

Anyway, I couldn't get along with them, so I quit trying. I no longer associate with them and have no dealings with them whatever. Life is too short to bother with persons you cannot get along with. What is the use of going through avoidable ordeals?

Getting along with persons is largely a matter of desire. It depends upon how much you care to get along with them. If you greatly wish to get along with them, for business or other reasons, it is easy enough if you subordinate your own self completely to them. It is a pretty good price to pay just to get along with [illegible].

I have always claimed that the woman did not live that I could not get along with, or that any man could not get along with, if he desired. It might represent a lot of sacrifice, and considerable servitude, and perhaps some loss of self respect, yet it can be done.

However, who would want to pay that price just to get along with a woman? And would a woman who demanded that price be worth trying to get along with? I think not.

Why should one side of a friendship, or a business relation, or a marriage, be required to do all the "getting along with" the other side? It is a pretty tedious business constantly catering to whims and temperament, and I say again life is too short to bother with persons you cannot get along with.

I make all manner of concessions to the other fellow in trying to get along with him. I make allowance for the difference if any there be, in environment, and circumstances, and I will go a long ways with him.

Then when I see that I cannot get along with him, or, as he would probably put it, he cannot get along with me, I turn away abruptly. Enough is enough.

Real friends get along with each other all right. If you cannot get along with a friend he is not a friend. That is the very surest way in the world of telling a real friend—by your ability to get along with him.

My theory about being able to get along with any woman suffered to some extent not long ago when I was introduced to one with a warning from a friend to this effect:

So I laid myself out to get along with the lady. I was polite, I waited on her hand and foot, so to speak anticipating her every want, listening to her eagerly, and trying to show her I was for the time being her abject slave.

This woman was the meanest woman I ever saw. She was bitter and sarcastic in her remarks hostile to everybody present, rude and inconsiderate, and about everything else that a woman shouldn't be.

I could see that she was just aching to blast me a little, but I never gave her the opportunity. She couldn't, in all conscience, attack my armor of unctuous politeness.

Finally when she was leaving, having made everybody feel most uncomfortable, the man who introduced us said to her:

"Well, you and my friend seemed to be getting along all right over there."

"Getting along!" she said, wrathfully. "I could never get along with a man like that. He's altogether too polite!"
